OUTLINES.

President Roosevelt is receiving letters from all over the country giving him pointers about the alleged conspiracy to defeat his policies, according to news given out at the White House yesterday——The official programme for the opening of the Ter Centennial Exposition at Jamestown was given out yesterday; it opens Friday, April 26th, and President Roosevelt will be the feature; hundreds of salutes will be fired by the warships of all nations in honor of the President and the Republic, and Mr. Roosevelt will make a speech and press the button which will start the machinery——Monday will begin the twelfth week of the trial of Harry K. Thaw in New York for the murder of Stanford White; the argument in the case will begin as soon as court meets and it is believed the fate of the accused will be in the hands of the jury by Thursday; District Attorney Jerome will contend for a verdict that will send the young millionaire to the electric chair, and the defense will ask for a verdict of not guilty on the plea of insanity——Conferences are being held in Washington with a view to ending the war in Central America——A supplemental bill in equity was filed yesterday at Concord, N. H., in the legal fight over the millions of property of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, founder of the Church of Christ Scientist; the purpose is to vacate the deed of trust under which she turned over the property to three trustees, the plaintiffs contending that she was not mentally competent to execute the deed of trust and the appointment of trustees to handle her business is evidence of her mental incompetency——New York markets: Money on call nominal. time loans easier; spot cotton 11 cents; flour steady but quiet; wheat barely steady, No. 2 red, 82 1-2 elevator; corn steady, No. 2, 56 elevator; oats steady; mixed 46; turpentine quiet 73 to 73 1-2 rosin steady, strained common to good 4.50 to 4.55.

The Terrific Teddy Tale-tellers.

It's funny that Roosevelt didn't take the chance to get even with Ben Tillman by charging that he is in the "Rich Man's Conspiracy."

The Republican high tariff helps out the "Rich Men's Conspiracy" against us consumers. We are glad of this opportunity to break it off in 'em.

Ex-Senator Burton makes a noise like a Senator who thinks that the only advantage the other Senators have over him is that he was caught.

Harriman declares he gave $50,000 to the Roosevelt campaign fund. Harriman makes a noise like a man who has suddenly discovered that "a fool and his money soon parts."

It is now claimed that a man's breath can be photographed. If the married ladies learn this photograph trick, late home-coming husbands will try their best to be out of breath by the time they get in.

Don't blow in your money. There are four savings banks in Wilmington paying 4 per cent. interest on deposits anuually and compounded every three months. Bank your earnings for the future, young man.

"What is discretion?". asks a Harvard professor. It's the similitude of horse sense displayed by the big railroad presidents in refraining from going to Washington to talk it over with the Harvard graduate who is doing the Presidential stunt.

It is recalled that Secretary Taft when a judge on the bench decided that "a monther-in-law is not a member of the family." No doubt Judge Taft jumped at that conclusion as the result of palpably neglecting to have married men summoned to give in evidence.

A paragraph is going the rounds that a Chicago girl while playfully scuffling with her father knocked out two of his teeth, broke his kneecap and fractured his leg. It makes no difference whatsoever with young fellows. They will go right on taking chances with girls.

The Norfolk Landmark ups and says: "Of course, President Roosevelt will not apologize to Judge Parker, but he ought to do it." We should say the cumulative circumstances demade an apology. Oh, well maybe he has apologized, but Parker keeps the letter hid from the get-rich-quick stenographer.

Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, denies he is the individual who was at that supper in Washington and carried the news to the White House about that "Rich Men's Conspiracy" to defeat Roosevelt's policies and thus bring dire calamity to the country. Probably he makes the denial after "sober" reflection, but in doing so he may make himself liable for membership in Roosevelt's Ananias Club.

ANOTHER COLD SNAP

Rapid Fall of Thermometer Accompanied By Rain Made Conditions Very Disagreeable.

DISTURBANCE AT HATTERAS

Six Water Spouts at One Time Sighted by Crew of Steamer Buffeted by Storm—Fair Weather Promised Today.

There was another decided drop in the temperature yesterday and people were reminded that perhaps the cold, bleak weather of Easter Sunday was to be repeated today. From a temperature of 65 at 8 o'clock yesterday morning there was a quick drop of the thermometer to 46 degrees at 8 o'clock last night with the mercury still going downward. The day was cold, rainy and damp, making overcoats and wraps quite comfortable. While there is probably no likelihood of frost this morning the thermometer is several degrees colder than it was at 8 o'clock last night. A northeast storm warning preceded the fall in temperature and the disturbance seems to be pretty general over the coast. This was reflected in the weather map as sent out by the Weather Bureau yesterday morning and by the Associated Press dispatches received by the Star last night. The review of conditions yesterday morning was as follows:

"The southern depression has moved slowly eastward and is central this morning over East Tennessee and Western North Carolina, its progress being attended by unsettled weather and rains. A second disturbance of great extent covers the western sections.

"Colder weather prevails in the North and has spread southward with freezing weather in the Ohio Valley.

"The conditions indicate clearing and colder weather for this section tonight, and fair on Sunday."

The following account of the disturbance off the North Carolina coast will be read with interest in this connection:

New York, April 6.—With seven of her crew more or less injured and the others utterly exhausted, the steamer Virginia arrived here today from Kingston, Jamaica, after a desperate struggle with a storm of sixty hours' duration off Hatteras. The Virginia ran into the storm last Tuesday and from that time until Thursday it was a constant battle with the sea. The wind reached a velocity of sixty miles an hour and rain fell in torrents.

At one time six waterspouts were sighted from the steamer's bridge. An immense wave which struck the ship about six hours after she had run into the storm, ripped off the tarpaulins that had been hastily battened down over the hatch openings. Galleys, cabin and scuppers were flooded four-fold up. Frank Perry, the steward, and George Wolf, the cook, were in the galley when the water poured in on them, submerging them to their necks and setting things afloat. During the sixty hours which the storm continued Captain Gech remained continuously on the bridge and every man of the crew was kept at his post.

CAPT. OTTO AND WIFE SAFE

Were on Launch Charlotte Caase Stranded on Florida Beach.

The following Associated Press dispatch was received from St. Augustine, Fla., last night:

"St. Augustine, Fla., April 6.—Captain Otto and his wife are safe here, having walked up the beach from the stranded launch Charlotte E. Caase, from Wilmington, N. C., which is ashore south of Pablo Beach."

DEATH WAS SUDDEN

Mr. David W. Matthews Passed Away Last Night at His Home—Well Known Machinist and Engineer—Funeral Today.

Mr. David W. Matthews, a well known machinists and engineer, employed for many years at the various compresses and industrial plants of the city, died last night rather suddenly at the home of his son, Mr. Samuel A. Matthews, No. 607 South Front street. Mr. Matthews had been in poor health for some time but was up and about yesterday as usual. Last night he ate a hearty supper and afterwards talked with his son for some time. He retired a little later and the son came down town on business. While he was away, Mrs. Matthews heard from the room of her father-in-law signs of heavy breathing and going to his bedside, found that he was dying. She did what she could to summons a physician and Mr. Matthews was hurriedly sent for, but the suffering man was beyond all human power and he was soon no more. He passed away at 9:30 o'clock.

Mr. Matthews was in the 67th year of his age, having been born on May 21st 1840. He was well known in Wilmington and was held in the highest esteem by all. He had many noble traits of character and his presence in the community will be missed. He leaves only the son, Mr. S. A. Matthews, and one daughter, Mrs. C. I. Kline, of Newark, N. J. They have the tenderest sympathy of all in this, their hour of sorrow. Mrs. Kline has been telegraphed of the death of her father, but it is hardly expected that she can reach here in time for the funeral, which will be conducted from the residence this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The interment will be in Bellevue cemetery.

"THE SUCCESSFUL HUSBAND."

Two Installments of Special Series for the Sunday Paper.

The Star is beginning with the Sunday edition of today the publication of a series of articles by Caspar S. Yost dealing with the most important and interesting subject, "The Making of a Successful Husband." These articles are copyright and are put into the interesting style of a father writing to his son, with illustrations by Von Gottschalk. Two installments are printed in today's paper—"Making a Choice" and "The Honeymoon." Others of the series to follow are, "Making a Home," "The Money Question," "The Cooking Problem," "Home Department," "Home Economics," "Married Man's Place," "Reciprocal Confidence," "Your Mother-in-Law" and "Happiness in Work." The subject is treated in a serio-comedy vein and should prove quite entertaining as well as profitable to those who are about to or have already launched out into the sea of matrimony. The eleven articles in the series will be printed from Sunday to Sunday until the list is completed.

DOCKET IS FINISHED

One Week Term of New Hanover Superior Court For Trial of Criminal Cases.

CIVIL CAUSES TO-MORROW

Interesting Trial of Defendant Charged With Practicing Medicine Without License—Joe Murphy Developed "Brain Storm."

With the exception of the Snipes case, which was continued with the jury, the docket for trial at the one-week term of New Hanover Superior Court was cleared at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and tomorrow morning a two-weeks term for the trial of civil suits will begin. There were several cases continued on the criminal docket, but in the main all jail matters were disposed of and the week was one of progress.

The cases tried yesterday were of no special interest with the possible exception of one in which Dr. L. J. G. Morel appeared as the defendant, charged with practicing medicine without license, a true bill having been returned by the grand jury several terms ago. Dr. Morel pleaded his own case pending the arrival of his counsel, Brooke G. Empie, Esq., and displayed a knowledge of technical matters and therapeutics, which with his fluent language, completely bewildered the court, the solicitor and the jury. Of course a verdict of acquittal followed. Messrs. P. O. Hall, Wm. Niestlie and B. C. Moore, pharmacists of the city, testified to having filled prescriptions sent in by Dr. Morel but none of these were signed and the practice of the medical profession in the ordinary sense of the word could not be traced to him. Dr. C. T. Harper was also placed on the stand but his evidence was all hear-say, therefore, incompetent.

Dr. Morel went on the stand in his own behalf, and testified to wonderful cures that he had made in his practice of hydro-therapeutics or "water cure." The science of this practice was shown to the court by the witness, the elements prescribed being principally water, air and healthful exercise or physical culture. Dr. Morel volunteered the information a few minutes after he left the stand that the Solicitor seemed to be suffering with dyspepsia. The jury retired and a few minutes returned with a verdict of not guilty, the disciples of Aesculapius who had been summoned to testify against the doctor, beating a hasty retreat.

Joe Murphy, the young Wilmington negro in jail charged with inflicting wounds on Ellis Benjamin, another negro at the compress last Summer, from which wounds Benjamin later died at his home in Florence, S. C., developed a "brain storm" when his case was called for trial yesterday afternoon and Dr. F. H. Russell, in the absence of the county superintendent of health, was sent to the jail to make an examination of the prisoner. Dr. Russell reported officially to the court that Murphy was suffering from hysteria; that he was unconscious and didn't feel pain, this being partly voluntary and partly involuntary; that he would be absolutely unconscious of any legal proceedings against him and in the doctor's opinion he should not be moved.

Judge Long humorously remarked aside that Solicitor Duffy must be a totally different man from what the county commissioners would have us believe to throw a prisoner in such terror as that and the case was continued until the next term.

Routine Proceedings.

Court met at 9:30 A. M. yesterday and the sheriff returned as talesmen for the day W. C. Moore, R. A. Cromwell, H. F. Otten, A. O. McEachern and E. N. Penny. For reasons satisfactory to the court, Mr. Otten was excused. The following cases were disposed of:

B. May and M. May, receiving stolen goods,; continued under same bond.

Elliott Garey, assault with deadly weapon; verdict guilty, five months on roads. Judgment suspended on good behavior as to carrying concealed weapon.

John Jones, sci fa; adjudged to pay costs of sci fa.

Ammy Carter, sci fa; adjudged to pay costs of sci fa.

James McFarland, nol pros with leave.

James Armstrong and Walter McGuire, larceny; cases consolidated; 12 months on roads as to Armstrong; six months as to McGuire.

James Hatch, larceny; called and failed; ni si sci fa and capias.

David Merrick, assault with deadly weapon; called and failed; judgment ni si sci fa and capias.

John Henry, assault with deadly weapon; verdict not guilty; resisting an officer; 12 months on roads.

Neil Blackman, resisting officer and carrying concealed weapons; called and failed, judgment ni si sci fa and capias.

Thos. Simmons, assault with deadly weapon; bond of $200 given with R. W. Wallace as surety. This is the case in which Mr. Simmons was charged with shooting young M. H. Bryan.

Nathan Hankins, receiving stolen goods; verdict guilty, 12 months on roads.

C. T. Croom, disorderly conduct, appeal from Mayor's court; defendant submitted through counsel, T. D. Meares, Jr., Esq., and was fined $5 and costs. The Mayor had imposed a fine of $50 and costs.

Teady Von, affray; continued under same bond.

Louis McDonald, capias for costs.

R. G. Pickett, sci fa; motion to set aside judgment absolute; motion continued.

Peter Covington, gambling, nol pros with leave.

Dave Merrick, sci fa; judgment absolute.

Proceedings This Week.

The court will convene tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock for the purpose of taking up the civil docket. The cases set for trial Monday are: Charles Wessell vs. Thorpe & Applegate; Louisa B. Smith vs. Susan E. Moore, Ex.; Etta Hart vs Josh Simmons and A. C. Neilson vs. Southern Express Company.

The jurors summoned for the first weeks term are as follows: J. W. Yates, L. S. Belden, W. D. Huhn, John Wannamaker, John S. Poovey, H. W. Malloy, Timothy Donlan, J. W. Smith, G. D. Phares, Charles H. Hill, H. A. Burr, Samuel A. King, J. W. Mintz, Geo. E. Leftwich, W. J. Kirkham, J. P. Taylor, T. R. Bryant, M. J. Crouse.

Judge Long will continue to preside over the civil term. He has made many friends in Wilmington and has made a fine impression on the bar as one learned in the law, kindly and considerate.

NEWS FROM RALEIGH

Recital at Baptist Female University. Governor Speaks in Harnett County—Rev. Milton A. Barber Accepts New Charge.

(Spcial Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., April 6.—Tonight at the Baptist University for Women there was given the fourth historical recital of chamber of music in which Miss Elizabeth D. Burtt, of the music faculty, was the principal participant. Miss Burtt has made for herself an enviable reputation as a pianist of rare talent and high culture and combines with these an exceptionable degree of ability as an instructor.

Rev. Milton A. Barber, the new assistant rector for Christ Church here, arrived today from Burlington where he has served the Episcopal church there with a high degree of success for several years. He was for some time rector of St. Paul's church, Wilmington. He will officiate at Christ church Sunday morning for the first time.

Governor Glenn went to Duke, Harnett county, today to deliver an address in connection with a big jollification and flag raising by the Junior Order, United American Mechanics.

Special terms of Superior Court were ordered today by Governor Glenn for Perquimans and Camden counties, one week each for civil causes, the Perquimans court to convene June 17 and the Camden court June 24, Judge W. R. Allen to preside over both.

Judge Thomas R. Purnell writes from Richmond that the condition of Mr. Purnell continues very serious, and that it is very probable that he will be unable to go to Elizabeth City Monday to open the United States court there. However he directs the court officers here to proceed there as usual and he will telegraph whether or not it will be possible for him to come. If this court is convened Monday it will be the first court to be held in the handsome new government building at Elizabeth City. Mrs. Purnell is under treatment in a hospital at Richmond.

DEATH OF MRS. HERGENROTHER.

Good Woman Entered Into Rest Yesterday—Funeral This Afternoon.

Mrs. Sabina Hergenrother, widow of the late Adam Hergenrother and a woman held in the highest esteem by all in the circle of her acquaintance, passed away yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the family residence in this city, No. 216 South Fifth street, after an immediate illness of only since Wednesday a week ago. She was in the sixty-first year of her age and with her husband who preceded her to the grave a year and a half ago, she had lived in Wilmington for most of her life. She leaves a large family of sons and daughters, all of whom have the tenderest sympathy of many friends in their bereavement.

The sons and daughters surviving are: Mr. James Hergenrother, who lives in Germany; Mr. Albert Hergenrother, of Binghampton, N. Y.; Mrs. M. H. Hoffman, of Baltimore; Mr. A. A. Hergenrother, Mrs. W. B. Schuler, and Misses Katie, Mary and Lizzie Hergenrother, of this city.

The funeral will be conducted this afternoon at 4 o'clock from St. Thomas' Catholic Church by the Rev. Father C. Dennen and the interment will be in Oakdale cemetery.

Cruelty to Animals Charged.

In Justice Furlong's court yesterday morning Ed Haywood, John Green, John Long, Charles Jackson and one Blackhouse, all colored, were charged with cruelty to animals in mistreating a pair of horses belonging to Messrs. Orrell & Alexander. The quartette named hired a team to go out to a school-breaking in the country and on the way back the wagon broke down When the horses reached the stables they were a little the worse for wear and the negroes were haled to court by the colored driver sent from the stables, who was held responsible by his employers. The evidence, however, was not conclusive and the negroes had to be discharged.

MISTRIAL ORDERED

Unable to Reach Verdict in Snipes Case in the Superior Court.

APPLICATION FOR A BOND

This Will Be Argued Tomorrow. Jury Understood to Have Been Eleven For Acquittal—Red Light District Condemned.

Three times in open court having signified their unanimous opinion that they would never reach an agreement and twice having sent the same message to His Honor by the bailiff in charge of them, the jurors empanelled to try the issues between the State and Lonnie Snipes charged with the killing of W. L. Williams last September, last night at 11 o'clock were discharged by His Honor, Judge B. F. Long, presiding, and an order of mistrial was entered upon the docket. Immediately this disposition of the case was made, Mr. Marsden Bellamy, of counsel for the defense, made application for bail for the prisoner, but the motion was continued and will be heard tomorrow.

Although it was suggested to the jurors by Judge Long before they were discharged that their standing upon the conviction or acquittal of the defendant be kept within themselves, it leaked out a few minutes after they left the box that they stood eleven to one for acquittal, Mr. D. L. Gore being the only one holding out for conviction. When the jury first retired, it was stated that the ballot stood ten for acquittal and two for conviction, Mr. J. G. Barentine being the second juror of the opinion of Mr. Gore, but he immediately came over to the majority and there was no change during the long twenty-nine hours that they deliberated upon the question, which was one entirely of facts in the case, rather than as to the law involved upon which they were given the most careful instruction by the court.

Thus ends the first trial of a case which has occupied with the deliberations of the jury two whole days and a half in the Superior Court. The same tedious, delicate task of trying the case all over again will have to be undertaken at the July term. The result of the case last night was one upon which both the defendant and his counsel were warmly congratulated by the large number of spectators in the court room at the time, it having been understood in the afternoon that Judge Long would send for the jury at 10 o'clock and take some action in the premises. All members of counsel were present at the time and nearly an hour was consumed by Judge Long in talking to the jury in an effort to find if there was any way in which he could properly assist them in reaching an agreement. This was futile and twice having signified their unanimous opinion that they could never agree, Judge Long had Juror W. E. Merritt withdrawn and the mistrial was ordered in the following entry upon the Clerk's docket:

"In this case, the jury having given notice three several times in open court that they could not agree upon their verdict and having given notice two several times through the officer in their charge that they could not agree, it is now found as a fact by the court, twenty-nine hours after the case was given to the jury at the hour of 10:50 o'clock Saturday night of the April term, that the jury cannot agree upon the verdict, whereupon W. E. Merritt is withdrawn from the panel and it is adjudged that there is a mistrial of this case. It is further adjudged by the court that there shall be a new trial in this case and a new trial of this case is ordered by the court, counsel on both sides and the prisoner being present at the time of the finding of these facts and at the time of the making of this order. It is further ordered that the prisoner be remanded to jail until the further orders of the court."

It was just after the dictation of the above judgment in the case to the Clerk by Judge Long that Mr. Bellamy made the motion for bail for the prisoner, stating that he was not able to give a large bond, but that he was entitled to some consideration under the circumstances just ended. Solicitor Duffy stated that he would be here Monday and will represent the State in naming any amount of bond that may be required.

The jury was brought into open court three times yesterday for the purpose of finding if they had agreed and for the purpose of receiving any additional instructions from His Honor that might be properly given. In the morning upon the convening of the session, Judge Long put the usual questions to the members of the panel and was told most emphatically that there seemed to be no possibility of an agreement, Mr. Gore acting as spokesman. He stated that it was a question of fact upon which they were hopelessly divided. They were then ordered back to the room and were with all due consideration urged to try to reach some conclusion as a question of facts was entirely one for the jury and not for the judge, who was there to instruct them as to the law.

Juror A. A. Dock was sick during

ROOSEVELT PLAYING POLITICS.

It has probably struck a great many people that President Roosevelt was playing politics when he gave out at the White House the scare story that a "Rich Man's Conspiracy" has risen up to defeat his policies and already has a nest egg of $5,000,000 to pack the Republican National convention and in any event to capture Congress. Evidently the President wants to write the platform and dictate the nomination of the 1908 Republican convention, and he is beginning to work on his plan to scare the masses into aiding him in that ambition. Mr. Tom Pence Washington correspondent of the Raleigh News and Observer sends this to that paper on Friday:

"Theodore Roosevelt is fast burning the bridges behind him in his endeavor to force the nomination of a man of his choice for the Presidency on the Republican ticket. In his remarkable conversation with newspaper men Wednesday he made clear the fact that he will endeavor to array the big Republican trust magnates, such as Rockefeller and Harriman against him with the hope of winning the Republican masses to his side. That Mr. Roosevelt is playing politics with the hope of breaking down Foraker and other leaders who are opposed to him is plain. But the question is are the people so simple as to swallow such palpable bait. The President could never have been elected but for the self-same crowd that he is setting up a target. He ran hard and fast with Harriman when it was plain that everything that juggling financiers stood for was inimical to American government and institutions, not to speak of the popular good.

"That Theodore Roosevelt is a mighty clever politician no one will deny, but many people think that the disclosures resulting from his controversy with E. H. Harriman will rise up to haunt him when he attempts to force the nomination of one of his own in the Republican National Convention. There is a lurking suspicion that the half has not been told, and that when the whole story is divulged there will be more evidence of contributions to the Republican National Committee in 1904 that will cause the people of this country to sit up and take notice."

Probably the "Rich man's Conspiracy" item handed out at the White House was for a two fold object—to detract attention from the Harriman-Roosevelt exposure, and the ultimate object to influence the people in sending pro Roosevelt delegates to the National Republican Convention. However it may be, we are rather inclined to believe that Roosevelt will do as he pleases with the next Republican National Convention. He's got things going his way.

LOOSE METHODS IN ESTIMATING POPULATION.

Speaking of the subject of population, a special dispatch from Washington to the Richmond News-Leader under date of April 3rd, discussses the loose methods in the census bureau for estimating population subsequent to a regular census. It has been only a few days ago since the Star called in question the bureau estimate which gave Wilmington an increase of only 552 in population during four years of marked progress in the city. The News-Leader's correspondent, with the grievance of Richmond in view, went to the census bureau to make an investigation. He says:

"The cities of Charleston, Richmond, Atlanta and Savannah have apparently suffered to no small extent in the estimates furnished by the census bureau a few days ago, purporting to correctly state the population of these places on June 1, 1906. The bureau took eighty-eight cities, each having a population of 50,000 or more inhabitants, and according to the 'estimates' placed their relative rank as follows: Atlanta was given thirty-eighty place, Richmond forty-seventh, Savannah sixty-second and Charleston seventy-ninth. Atlanta is credited with having changed her population from 89,872 in 1900 to 104,948 in 1906; Richmond from 85,050 to 87,246; Savannah, from 54,244 to 68,596, and Charleston, from 55,807 to 56,317.

"These 'estimates' being so clearly erroneous and placing the cities herein enumerated in a wrong light to their real size, the News-Leader correspondent today went to the census bureau to ascertain, if possible, just how these 'estimates' were made up. While the reasons assigned by the officials do not clear up the situation to any great extent, some light is thrown on the incorrect and loose methods used in the preparation of the figures purporting to be correct."

The News-Leader's correspondent then goes on to speak of the methods of estimating population, and the gist of it is that the whole thing is pretty poor guesswork—like it was as to Wilmington which was given an official census population of 20,976 in 1900, and an estimated population in 1906, four years later, of 21,528.

DEPLETING IRELAND'S POPULATION.

A cablegram from London says a Parliamentary paper shows that emigration depleted the population of Ireland last year by 35,918 persons, being 8.2 per thousand of the entire population. The United States continues to be the Irish Mecca, having received last year 76 per cent. of the total emigration. It is pointed out in this paper that since 1851 4,110,000 persons have emigrated from Ireland to various countries, and that this number equals 93 per cent. of the present population of the country.

There are largely more Irish and their descendants in the United States than there are now in Ireland. North Carolina would do well to get some of the people who continue to come here from the Emerald Isle.

THE MAXTON CHIEF.

Editor J. P. Wiggins, of the Maxton Chief, announces in his issue of last Friday, that he has sold the paper to Mr. W. B. Harker, who will continue the publication of the paper. This Mr. Harker is our friend Professor W. B. Harker, who has been a resident of Maxton for thirty-four years, and has been long identified with educational interests in the community. He is a man of fine ability and scholarly attainments, and while we always regret to part with one of our editor friends like Mr. Wiggins, we can say that he has turned the Chief over to most capable hands. We know enough about his successor to assert (not predict) that Editor Harker will make good. "Hail to the Chief."

CURRENT COMMENT.

—The fact that a man is honest does not prevent him from having fool ideas.—Durham Herald.

—From present indications there is going to be a calling of names in the next State convention.—Durham Herald.

—The story that Harry Thaw once wanted the Democratic nomination for Governor of Pennsylvania will not help to prove that he is still insane. Other men have had the same trouble and made a good recovery.—Washington Post.

—When a man gets home in the early hours of the morning and is able to pronounce the name of Tegucigalpa without stuttering, his wife ought to accept the excuse that he was sitting up with a sick friend.—Washington Post.

—If our information is correct there is a candidate for Alderman in this city who bolted the Democratic primaries last year and voted at least a part of the Republican ticket in the election last Fall. Is it not time for Democrats to call a halt, or is a premium to be put on party perfidy?—Charlotte News.

It is proposed in Tennessee to enact a law forbidding public service corporations to own, control or have any interest in any newspaper. Such a law might read well; the trouble would come in giving it any effect. Newspapers are not to be made the organs of the public interest by mere fiat of government. — Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

—Lawyers do funny things sometimes because they cannot run the courts. In Raleigh, the other day, a lawyer not liking Judge Jones' refusal to allow the postponement of a case, handed back the retaining fee to his client and started to leave the court room. Judge Jones ordered him to return, telling him plainly that he was in the case to stay.—Greenville (N. C.) Reflector.

TWINKLINGS.

—Jennie—That story they're telling about Kitty isn't worth repeating. Minnie—It's young yet. Give it time. —Winning Post.

—Green—"I was the victim of a lynching party in Arizona once." Brown—"You don't say." Green—"Fact. I married the widow of a man who was strung up for horse stealing." —Chicago News.

—Hubby—Awfully sorry I'm so late, dear. Been detained on business with Newcombe all the evening. Wifey—Yes, darling. Mr. Newcombe has been waiting here for you since 9 o'clock.—Bystander.

—Miss Planely—Tell me, how do you like the cut of my new skirt? Miss Knox—Very much. Miss Planely (suspiciously)—Oh! do you, really? Miss Knox—Yes, indeed; I had two just like it—when they were in style. —Philadelphia Press.

—Bacon—"They say the business of the gondoliers of Venice is being invaded by women. How'd you like to be paddled by a woman?" Egbert—"Excuse me I was paddled by my mother when I was a boy. That's all I want."—Yonkers Statesman.

—"That Martel is really a terrible bore. He talked last night for hours and only stopped to cough." "Well, I suppose you could get a word in edgeways then?" "Rather not, for while he was coughing he made signs with his hands that he was going on afterward."—Nos Loisirs.

—A Western bookseller, anxious to fill an order for a liberal patron, telegraphed to Chicago for a copy of "Seekers After God," by Canon Farrar, and to his surprise received this reply: "No seekers after God in Chicago or New York." Try Philadelphia."—Canadian Courier.

Doing Business Again.

"When my friends thought I was about to take leave of this world, on account of indigestion, nervousness and general debility," writes A. A. Chisholm, Treadwell, N. Y., "and when it looked as if there was no hope left, I was persuaded to try Electric Bitters, and I rejoice to say that they are curing me. I am now doing business again as of old, and am still gaining daily." Best tonic medicine on earth. Guaranteed by R. R. Bellamy, druggist. 50c.

CLEANLY WOMAN.

Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide by killing the dandruff germ, leaves the hair free to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

At The Theatre.

The average person has little idea of the time, labor and expense required to produce even an ordinary drama. When the play in question is a great scenic affair like "The Clansman," the details of organization and production are as numerous and extensive as those of a great industrial enterprise.

It cost to build "The Clansman" at least $100,000. Strange as it may seem, a play must be "built" as a house or public edifice. First Manager Brennan and Playwright Dixon chose from Mr. Dixon's novels, "The Leopard's Spots" and "The Clansman," those scenes which lend themselves to stage effect. An artist prepared a careful miniature model of each scene, something like the toy scenery that the average theatre; that eighteen arc lamps are operated by a special force of seventeen employes, and that the system of illumination has been perfected with the aid of the device patented by "The Clansman" stage manager, whereby the scheme of color effects can be varied and transformed with kaleidoscopic rapidity.

Still another important department of the production is that of the costumes. As the company numbers nearly a hundred people and the stage is filled at different times with civilians, soldiers in grey and in blue, negroes in borrowed finery and in rags, white-robed Clansmen, belles in the quaint costumes of 1867, and black wenches and pickaninnies clad in barbaric colors, it will be seen that several hundred costumes are required. A large force of dressmakers and tailors worked three months to complete

... producers of the play, next ...alling in counsel the chief electrician, planned the beautiful lighting effects which particularly distinguish "The Clansman." In order to obtain the gorgeous sunset followed by twilight and then by darkness in the first scene of the third act, and the ghostly effect of the Ku Kluk cave in the second scene of the same act, an extraordinary electric installation was required. While the details are too complex for any but a technical publication, it may be stated that a switchboard was made and is carried on tour much larger than that used in these after the costumer had made the designs. The little matter of wigs was no little matter for "The Clansman company, two hundred different varieties of artificial head coverings being required. Cosmetic and black cork are bought at wholesale; not only the principals but the humblest make up nightly.

A wardrobe mistress and several assistants are kept busy packing and unpacking the finery and accessories for the nightly performance, while the male "supers" are carefully looked after by a captain.

For the present season the entire production of "The Clansman" has been reconstructed and enlarged. There is general curiosity to see this biggest of stage entertainments when "The Clansman" plays at the Academy, matinee and night, next Saturday. Seats will be on sale Thursday morning.

MR. JAMES O'NEILL.
Famous American Actor in Monte Cristo, Which Will Be Presented Here on Thursday Evening This Week.

...stage realism is said to be exhausted ...n this year's production of "Monte Cri...to," which will be seen at the Academy Thursday night with James O'N...ll in the title role, a part wh... he has filled almost 5,000 times. Th... gorgeousness of scenery, costum...s, properties and electrical effects vies in this production with the strength of the acting, and the ensemble is said to be a revelation to theatre-goers. No part of it has been slighted, but the great scenes, of course, are the storm that closes the second act, the ball room in the fourth act and the duel scene in the last. These have been given effectively before but never with so much affluence, more especially in the matter of light effects than with this presentation. The splendor of the ball room scene is impoisng, with lavish display of gold, brilliantly illuminated. But even more striking are the swift transitions of light in the last act. Seats will be on sale Wednesday.

ROYAL VENETIAN BAND.
Signor Calfatty, Leader of Peerless Musical Organization.

The New York Morning Telegraph of recent date in commenting on Victor's Royal Venetian band, which is to be heard in this city Wednesday night, said: "Victor's Royal Venetian band made its first appearance at Proctor's Twenty-third Street theatre this week. The company of musicians is excellent; one of its features is the leader himself. He is a quiet little man, with a military bow and reminds everybody of Creatore in action."

The concert to be given at the Academy by this band will prove a decidedly interesting event in music circles for Wilmington, and, no doubt, the audience will be a large one. The price of seats has been made $1, the management of the Academy deeming it the best policy to "cut" the price in order to fill the theatre if possible. Seats will go on sale at Plummer's Monday morning, but lists for subscribers are now offered and can be found both at Plummer's and at the office of the Wilmington Wall Paper Company, opposite the City Hall.

In connection with the band concert will be heard a noted soprano soloist.

The All Important

Purity — there is nothing else half so important in beer. And nothing else is nearly so expensive.

Purity means absolute cleanliness.

It means freedom from germs. Even the air in our cooling rooms is filtered. And every bottle of Schlitz beer is sterilized after it is sealed.

It means an aged beer — aged for months, until it cannot cause biliousness.

Without those precautions, no beer can be healthful. And who would knowingly drink beer that was not?

Ask for the Brewery Bottling.
Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz.
To avoid being imposed upon, see that the cork or crown is branded

Mrs. Kate DeRosset Meares is at St. Peter's Hospital, in Charlotte, where she will probably be for some time.

Mrs. Elizabeth VanB. Sands has leased the Latimer place, on Bradley's Creek, and will spend the Summer there.

Rehearsals of the "Princess Bonnie" are being held regularly and the pretty little opera promises to be a pronounced success.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Marburg, Miss Christine Marburg and the younger children have returned to their home in Baltimore.

Mrs. John M. Coin will entertain at cards next Wednesday evening. She is a charming hostess, and her friends are anticipating a most pleasant evening.

Miss Bessie Bridgers, Miss Jennie Murchison, Miss Rita Meares and Mr. Graham Kenan attended the Easter dance at Chapel Hill last Friday evening.

Mrs. Charles W. Worth and Miss Julia Worth left Thursday evening on a short visit to Baltimore. Their friends will be pleased to welcome them on their return.

The Tuesday Evening Bridge Whist Club will hold its first after-Easter sitting this week at the home of Mrs. William Rand Kenan, Mrs. Jessie Kenan Wise being the hostess of the evening.

Miss Lilly Gilchrist was hostess at a very beautiful luncheon last Thursday, given in honor of her guest. Miss Maud Moore, of Indiana. The luncheon was described as a most attractive one, to which six of the hostess' friends were the guests.

Mrs. Edwin A. Wilson, who has been on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hector McL. Green, has returned to her home in Haverford, Penn. Mrs. Wilson's visit was very much enjoyed by her friends who will always have a welcome for her to Wilmington.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Francis H. Delano, who have been on a visit of two weeks to their daughter, Mrs. Philip Warland Delano, left Friday evening for Washington, D. C., where they will spend a few days before going to New York.

The Winter weather of the early part of the week interfered seriously with several social entertainments and seemed to have given a most decided set back to the opening of the after-Easter festivities, but the coming week is full of promise for a social whirl.

Miss Nellie Durham left Thursday for Oxford, N. C., where she attended the dance at the Horner School, and will be absent from home for several weeks. Miss Durham will visit relatives before returning, when she will be warmly greeted by friends.

The choir of St. James' Church, by request of Rev. Mr. Hogue, visited the Catharine Kennedy Home and the Marine Hospital, last Tuesday afternoon, singing for the inmates of both of these institutions the Easter music as rendered in St. James' Sunday morning. It was in a way a praise service, which gave much pleasure to those who heard it.

Miss Ida Pollard Evans, who has been the most charming and attractive guest of Miss Jennie Murchison, left Thursday evening for Fredericksburg, Va., where she will visit friends before returning to her home in Warrenton, Va. Miss Evans' friends exceedingly regret her departure and entertain a hope that it will not be long before her return.

A very beautiful reception was given by Mrs. J. M. Culbreth on Friday afternoon. Beautiful flowers were the decorations in the pretty rooms, and sweet music was rendered by Kneisel's Orchestra during the reception hours. The reception was one of the prettiest and most elaborate of the season and the pleasures of it will linger in the memory of Mrs. Culbreth's guests. Tempting refreshments were served and were much enjoyed.

Miss Hattie Tilghman, of Norfolk, Va., and Miss Carolyn Wilson, of Boston, Mass., who are charming guests of Mrs. William W. Holladay, were guests of honor of a very pretty little entertainment given the early part of the past week by their hostess. Pretty and seasonable flowers together with potted plants lent an enchantment to the Holladay home and added much to the beauty of the occasion. Euchre was the form of pleasure, and most tasty refreshments were daintily served.

The Easter offering of St. James' Sunday School, amounted to four hundred and forty-eight dollars. When it is understood that this amount represents the savings and labor of the tots who compose the school one will realize what can be accomplished by well directed efforts, even of little children. The offerings from all sources for the day amounted to more than two thousand dollars, which did not, of course, include the regular weekly contributions through the envelope system.

Depredations of squirrels continue in Oakdale Cemetery and there are many lot owners who cannot understand why something is not done to exterminate them. It is very discouraging to those who wish to have flowers growing about the mounds of their departed ones to find that their labors and money—expended have come to naught because of the depredations of squirrels. A prominent florist says that the squirrels have destroyed thousands of dollars worth of flowers and plants in the past two years.

The fourth historical concert of the Chamber of Music by the faculty of the Baptist University School of Music in Raleigh was given last evening by Miss Elizabeth D. Burtt, pianist, and Mr. Gustav Madgedorn, violinist, assisted by Miss Jennie E. Blinn and Mrs. Wade Brown, contralto. The programme was made up of compositions from the modern school of composers. Miss Burtt's many friends in this city are justly pleased to know of the high stand she has attained in the musical world, and are always pleased to learn of fresh laurels being added to her fame.

The cozy home of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Laird was the scene last Monday evening of a very beautiful little entertainment given in honor of Miss Hattie Tilghman, of Norfolk, Va. The parlors were tastefully ornamented with pretty carnations placed in advantageous positions in the rooms. The weather was most unpropitious for any sort of social pleasures, but the merry scene in the pretty rooms made one forget that rude northern winds were nipping the flowers of Spring. A most delightful evening was spent by Mrs. Laird's guests, who departed, carrying with them pleasant recollections of her charming hospitality.

The second concert at Lumina this afternoon will doubtless be well attended and will give pleasure to those who hear it. Kneisel's Orchestra will furnish the music and an attractive programme has been arranged by Mr. Kneisel, which is as follows:

PART I.

March, "Battle of the Waves".....Jno. T. Hall
Overture, "Lutspeil".....Kelar Bela
Waltz, "My Lady Laughter"....Blake

A society event which is being anticipated with much pleasure is a society drama, which will be given at Airlie about the last of the month. Thursday evening the personae dramatis met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Dick for the first rehearsal and last evening the cast of the drama went to Airlie, in a special car, to rehearse the play in the Tennis court of the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Jones. The play selected is one of Ethel Barrymore's favorites and Miss Barrymore has given her consent to have it played here in the private theatricals at Airlie. The play will be presented with all the scenic effects and will be handsomely staged and costumed. Those who will witness the play will be friends of the host and hostess of Airlie. Miss Sadie Jones will play the leading role and Miss Elliotte Emerson and Miss Tallulah DeRosset will also play difficult parts. The gentlemen in the cast are Mr. W. F. Robertson, Mr. Brooke G. Empie, Mr. Jas. H. Cowan, Mr. Albert S. Williams, Mr. Howard McClintock, Mr. Richard Bradley and Mr. Thos. H. Wright. Mr. Wright is manager of the affair and Mr. Jas. H. Cowan will direct the management of the stage.

Mrs. Percy R. Albright delightfully entertained at cards Friday afternoon, when six-handed euchre was played, the first prize, a hand-embroidered shirt-waist, falling to Mrs. Chas. S. Grainger, and a pretty apron was awarded to Miss Eunice Currie as a consolation for her poor luck at cards. The rooms of Mrs. Albright's home were prettily decorated with carnations, honeysuckles, jessamine and blue bells, the perfume from which filled the air with a whif of Spring. The entertainment was spoken of as a most pleasant one, and will long be remembered by the guests, who were Mrs. John H. Quinan, Miss Eunice Currie, Mrs. William F. Robertson, the Misses Gibson, Mrs. Chas. S. Grainger, Mrs. J. Victor Grainger, Mrs. A. M. Hall, Mrs. Joseph C. Sheppard, Mrs. J. McRee Hatch, Miss Jane Meares, Mrs. C. Oscar Byerly, Mrs. John D. The Easter german of L'Arioso Club was a most beautiful one, and was led by Mr. Richard Bradley. The ball room was dressed with unusual effectiveness and the german was one in which the favors which were carnations, white linen parasols, dainty white muslin aprons, straw hats, artificial flowers and other trimmings, added greatly to the spectacular effect. The straw hats were deftly and dextrously trimmed by nimble fingers, and it was something of a surprise to the masculine participants of the dance to find so many born milliners on the ball room floor. The Maypole figure was a very pretty one, the varied hues and tints of the many ribbons and the bright colors of artificial roses and other flowers, producing a most pleasing picture. An innovation of the dance was a "cutting out of carriages" and for the first time in the history of the Club, its members and guests were taken to the ball in a large suburban car, chartered for the purpose. After the dance a car was at the door to carry the dancers around the belt, each couple getting off at a point nearest their homes. This is regarded as throwing down the gauntlet to the livery companies, who have recently increased the charge for carriages to a point which raised a boycott.

The pretty little launch, Scuppernong, with her bunting proudly floating in the breezes, carried a merry party on one of the most pleasant of boating parties, last Friday afternoon. The party was given by the launch's owner, Mr. Clarence D. Maffitt, in compliment to Misses Bessie and Elovine Burruss, Misses Lucy and Margaret Bridgers, Miss Alice Crapster, Misses Nannie and Marguerite Holladay, Miss Maud Moore, Miss Lilly Gilchrist, Miss Frances Chadbourn, Miss Agnes Seabreaze, and Miss Lola Anderson. The run was from the foot of Market street up the Northeast river, thence for about seven miles up Smith's creek. The beautiful banks of the winding river never looked prettier than they did Friday afternoon in their dress of yellow jessamine, honeysuckles, blue bells, and the soft green foliage of early Spring. Up the river the happy company loaded the staunch little craft with pretty wild flowers and amid the strains of sweet music of old familiar airs the Scuppernong rode proudly back to port. Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Adams were the chaperones, and the following gentlemen were of the sailing party: Mr. R. A. Williams, Mr. Hunter Wood, Mr. Clayton Giles, Mr. C. McD. Davis, Mr. Preston Cumming and Lieutenants Satterlee, Reinburg, Jones and Crapster, of the Seminole.

TROOPS OVERAWE STRIKERS.

Thousand Strike Breakers for American Shipbuilding Company.

Loraine, O., April 5.—With the members of Company B, of this city, Ohio National Guard, under orders and sleeping in the armory close to the seat of trouble, and three companies of Cleveland troops under orders and ready to respond to a call here at any moment, quiet prevails tonight at the yards of the American Shipbuilding Company, the scene of the rioting for two days past. The troops are under orders to respond at the call of the mayor who has also sworn in a large force of special deputies, who are co-operating with the police and company detectives.

Another train load of strike-breakers, numbering from 150 to 200, arrived at 5:30 o'clock this evening and the men were escorted into the yards under cover of the guns of detectives and special deputies. The strikers were congregated about in squads and witnessed the march of the last recruits into the shipyards without any offer of violence. Hundreds of cotton mattresses and other articles of bedding paraphernalia were successfully removed from the freight depots into the shipyards late today. Superintendent LeMarche declared tonight that over 400 strike breakers are now inside the shipyards and that fully 1,000 more will be brought within the next few days.

TRIPPLE TRAGEDY IN CHICAGO.

Man Shot Wife's Parents and Killed Himself.

Chicago, April 5.—Adam C. Rhein, 50 years of age, residing at 3,725 Lowe Avenue, today shot and fatally wounded his father-in-law, William Rommel, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Minnie Rommel, and then killed himself by firing a bullet into his brain. Yesterday Rhein and his wife quarreled and she left him, going to the home of her parents at 261 Twenty-Ninth Street. It was reported to Rhein that she had commenced proceedings for a divorce and he declared to kill his wife. He placed three revolvers in his pockets and went to the house in which the Rommels lived and kept a confectionery store. Mrs. Rhein saw him enter and ran out the back door. Rhein fired at her twice, but missed her. He then shot Rommel twice through the left lung and shot Mrs. Rommel through the body, the ball striking her just below the heart. Rhein then killed himself.

At the hospital to which Rommel and his wife were taken, it was said that both will die.

HESTER'S COTTON STATEMENT.

Total Visible Supply in World is 5,315,216 Bales.

New Orleans, April 5.—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's supply of cotton issued today shows the total visible to be 5,315,216 bales, against 5,378,818 last week, and 4,535,457 last year. Of this the total of American cotton is 3,883,216, against 4,007,818 last week, and 3,002,457 last year, and of all other kinds, including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 1,432,000, against 1,371,000 last week, and 1,533,000 last year. Of the world's visible supply of cotton there is now afloat and held in Great Britain and Europe, 3,045,000, against 2,182,000 last year; in Egypt, 192,000, against 161,000 last year; in India, 757,000, against 997,000 last year, and in the United States 1,321,000, against 1,195,000 last year.

ITALIANS SUPPORT NEGROES.

Steamship Companies at Norfolk Will Not Re-employ Strikers.

Norfolk, Va., April 5.—The negro longshoremen of the Merhants and Miners Transportation Company and the Old Dominion Steamship Company, who have been on a strike for an increase of five cents an hour in wages, have been notified by the companies that they need not return. White labor is being imported and after tomorrow the steamship companies hope to be again handling their freight regularly. The Merchants and Miners today have about one hundred Italians at work and the Old Dominion is seeking white longshoremen.

Santos Dumont was not wiling to risk his new aeroplane in the heavy wind, at Paris, yesterday, so he made his experiment with his old machine. He flew a distance of thirty yards when the machine as upset by a strong gust of mind and came violently to the ground. Dumont was not injured but the machine was seriously damaged. The trial was made at Saint Cyr.

Comparisons Prove Facts

A comparison of Nunnally's with other high-grade candy, will prove that their claim of superiority is not alone a claim, but an indisputable fact.

Compare the fillings, as well as the coatings of each separate piece, the variety of assortment in each box, and the care with which each box is packed, and the popular verdict will be that Nunnally's Candy is the purest and best on the market.

GOOD WHALE STORY

How the Charleston People Came Into Possession of a White Elephant, and How the Monster Was Finally Disposed Of.

(Richmond News-Leader.)

English newspapers tell of the capture, at Hull, of a whale. The creature was towed ashore and speedily became such a nuisance that the Board of Health proceeded to inflict fines on the owners, who had bought on speculation and who found themselves not only without hope of profit, but at large expense in the way of penalties and towage.

History repeats itself. One of the best illustrations ever given of the human tendency to make desperate pursuit and take all kinds of chances to get a thing and then to find it undesirable and uncomfortable, occurred at Charleston, S. C., in 1878 or 1879, and is famous in the local annals of that historic community. On a brilliant day, probably in the early Spring, a whale entered the harbor there, and the entire community united in pursuit. Old and young of both sexes and all classes took to the water in anything that would float and move, from an ocean tug to a dugout with a paddle. The city for once forgot its conservatism, and the affair was a grand popular frolic, its pleasure increased by a pretty strong element of danger.

The whale played horse with the town. Every now and then he stood on his head on the bottom of the harbor and waved his tail derisively in the air, as if to prove that the claim of a depth of more than twenty-five feet was a fallacy and a dream. Occasionally he took a crack at an over-eager tug boat, making kindling wood of its upper wood work, or took a bee line toward a row boat, apparently for no other purpose than to develop the capacity of local oarsmen for rapid and fancy work. He made circles and cut figure eights, tumbled and rolled and flopped and enjoyed himself and chased the entire maritime outfit in sections. He was fired on with rifles, revolvers and shot guns and stabbed at with bayonets, sharpened sticks, spears and ancient harpoons ,and even pocket knives. It was one of the most extraordinary amateur whale hunts the world has ever seen.

Finally the crew of a Norwegian bark rigged up a couple of ancient harpoons from forgotten ships' stores, put out in a whale boat in whalemen fashion, and after an hour or two of work and many narrow escapes, landed their quarry, dead and still. Eager local speculators began to bid on him, and one firm secured the carcass for two or three hundred dollars cash. Then the whale was towed into a dock on Cooper River, a fence was built around him and the owners began to do a land-office business, admitting spectators at a quarter each.

In about two days the whale began to file a protest against these indignities. It was a protest which burdened the atmosphere and made each passing breeze a weighty and greasy terror. As most of us know by experience, an ordinary mackerel, usually inconsequential and obscure, lying dead on the beach, and beginning to do business with itself and prepare for disintegration, can make the immediate neighborhood unpleasant. If we can imagine about a billion mackerel in that condition, and the flavor of them intensified about a billion times, we may get an idea of what Charleston underwent from that whale. It was one solid, pervading, high-kicking, overpowering, oily and rancid and rotten smell, fifty feet long and about twelve feet high, and gaining in strength and reach every minute. The people who paid a quarter to see the whale the first day were expending dollars and taking trains to get away from his neighborhood two days later. Public curiosity vanished. Everybody knew the whale was there, and experts announced that the process of decomposition probably would last all summer. Even the buzzards, for which Charleston at that time was famous, because they constituted the local board of health and scavenger force, left and flew toward the mountain, their necks stretched high for a whiff of fresh, unburdened air.

The authorities ordered the whale to be removed. The owners replied that the whale was at the disposal of the authorities, they themselves having lost interest in it. It had ceased to be a speculation and became a disaster, and everybody within six miles was a stockholder. People who had colds in their heads were objects of general envy. The odor was all pervasive. It was everywhere and at all times, and there was no let-up in it. The only change observable was that it became a little stronger and the impression of grease or stale oil a little more thoroughly defined every few hours. The whale and his owners were stranded alike. It was impossible to pull him off the shore on which he had been deposited at a high tide. He wouldn't burn; he couldn't be blown up. No death that ever occurred in Charleston was so deeply regretted as that of this stranger who had arrived but a few days before, without a single acquaintance, but who was making his powerful personality and strong influence so widely felt. There was a general, sad belief that he had not been well treated, and people said frankly that if they had known his qualities and possibilities, instead of annoying him, they would have escorted him to the mouth of the harbor with a brass band and boosted him over the bar, if necessary, to facilitate his departure and make it pleasant. Finally, in desperation, the work of cutting him into sections was undertaken. It continued more than a week, and it was the most miserable week in Charleston's history. If anybody can imagine a steady diet of cod liver oil well past its youth and usefulness, everything tasting of it, and the air saturated with it, the experience can be understood. The siege and bombardment of Fort Sumter was a mere pleasant episode and pastime compared with the visit of that whale. When the meat had been cut away and boiled down, or hauled out to sea in chunks, each the size of a couple of hogsheads, the skeleton was towed up river and left on an uninhabited island, and in course of time was articulated. It now reposes in the Charleston museum.

Before that time, and since that time, men have dared death, squandered money, sacrificed health and devoted days and nights of toil to winning women and finding them just about as undesirable as Charleston and Hull have found their whales; to accumulating wealth and learning that was bitterness and vanity, have given their lives, their honor, their very souls, for the purchase of white elephants, of which they were heartily sick in brief time; but we doubt whether any other instances are on record of entire communities acquiring, after much striving, such undesirable property as large dead whales, except Hull, England and Charleston, S. C.—with the possible addition of the several cities in straightened circumstances which have pinched themselves to attain Carnegie libraries.

WILL THIS BILL PASS?

Bill Taylor's gone to Denver;
A legislative chair
He's got, for Bill was 'lected
To represent us there.
Before he left he told us
Proud of him we'd sure be.
He says we will, but will we?
We're waitin' now to see.

He says, by gum, he'll stun 'em
With speeches that he'll make,
An' folks will all be askin',
"Who's that bright country Jake?"
He says on bills we favor
He'll make 'em all agree.
He says he will, but will he?
We're waitin' now to see.

He vows no boss will rule him;
He'll stick to what is right,
No matter if to do it
The whole bunch he must fight.
He says he'll drink no whisky;
Bill swears he'll stick to tea.
He says he will, but will he?
We're waitin' now to see.

Bill Taylor's gone to Denver
With "Hon." hitched to his name;
He's not up there for riches
An' not to gain great fame.
He says it's his ambition
To serve us faithfully.
He says it is, but is it?
We're waitin' now to see.
—Denver Post.

BREVITIES

THE HALL OF FAME.

Governor Harris of Ohio is the oldest chief executive of any state in the Union.

Lord Northcliff, formerly Sir Alfred Harmsworth of England, may be entitled the greatest newspaper magnate of the world. He owns and actively directs some forty prosperous dailies and other periodicals.

Captain Edward Howard of Oakland, Cal., probably the oldest mariner in the United States, has retired after having followed the sea over eighty years. He is ninety-six years old, but is still stout and hearty.

According to Czech newspapers, at Aujezd, Moravia, recently Joseph Koppner, 101 years old, led to the altar Rosa Waldner, who has also passed the century mark. The "young couple" knew and loved each other for thirty years.

The youngest member of the Sixtieth congress will be Harry B. Wolf, elected from the Third district of Maryland. He has just passed his twenty-sixth birthday and is married. Mr. Wolf began life as a Baltimore newsboy and is now a lawyer in good practice.

Captain A. W. V. Trant of the transatlantic liner Devonian handles his ship in first class style and in addition finds time in the spare moments of his voyages to paint pictures in oil, write the words for music and compose verses that are of more than ordinary merit.

John E. Wilkie, chief of the secret service, is one of the best amateur magicians in the country. He performs wonders with a deck of cards, and his sleight of hand maneuvers with coin, handkerchiefs and other objects are a source of constant wonder to his friends.

Professor Moissan, the inventor of artificial diamonds, has been awarded the Nobel prize for chemistry. Professor Moissan invented an electrical furnace giving a temperature of 3,000 degrees. His invention of diamonds was severely challenged when it was first made known.

H. J. Henebry, Ireland's Rugby fullback, played the other day for seventy minutes against the South Africans while suffering from a split ear, damaged skull, broken middle finger on left hand, strained chest muscles and torn finger cartilages. He received the injuries in a tackle ten minutes after the game began.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Charles Frohman has gone to London, to be abroad for some months.

Clara Bloodgood has scored her greatest success in Clyde Fitch's play, "The Truth."

Charles Frohman will shortly produce "La Belle Marseillaise" in London with John Hare.

J. M. Barrie's "Peter Pan" is now being played at the Duke of York's theater, London.

Ethel Barrymore will probably appear in London next summer with an American company.

William H. Crane is having a most successful tour with "She Stoops to Conquer," in which he is starring jointly with Ellis Jeffreys.

Henry Arthur Jones, author of "The Hypocrites," is to write a new play, to be produced at the Hudson theater, New York, a year from next September.

Between now and May one New York manager will produce plays in London with John Hare, Ellen Terry, Marie Tempest, Irene Vanbrugh, Edna May, Gerald Du Maurier, Ellaline Terriss, Seymour Hicks and Huntley Wright.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

The other day a London food inspector took a sample of oleomargarine from a grocer's shop and on examining it found it to be pure butter.

English people eat on the average thirteen pounds of butter a head yearly, says the Steward's Bulletin. This is more than is eaten per capita in any other nation.

A motor car driver in London the other day charged and scattered like chaff a whole troop of the life guards, but paid $8 next day in the police court for his victory.

Because the lock of a Methodist church in Hazlemere, England, wouldn't work it was taken off. The locksmith found 12s. 7½d. in it, some pious people having mistaken it for a contribution box.

Henry Labouchere in a recent number of London Truth says that in the past twenty-five years members of the British aristocracy have parted with more than $500,000,000 to promoters and brokers and have "received about sixpence in the pound by way of commission."

GERMAN GLEANINGS.

Every German soldier's equipment includes a Bible and a half pound cake of chocolate.

There are 430 manufacturers of artificial flowers, leaves, plants and fruits in the district of Dresden, Germany.

A charitable Berlin lady has taken the necessary legal steps to secure for Voigt, the hero of Kopenick, a life pension, which will relieve him of the necessity of seeking further work on his release from prison.

During the year 1906, 30,000 deserted wives were relieved by the Berlin poor law officials at a cost of $125,000. A great majority of cases of matrimonial troubles resulted from drunkenness, which breaks up homes, at least temporarily.

Sale of Land for Taxes.

Take notice that I have levied upon, and will sell at public auction, at the Court House door of the County of New Hanover, on Monday, the 6th day of May, 1907, at 12 o'clock noon, the following described real estate, to satisfy the unpaid taxes due the City of Wilmington, North Carolina, for the year 1906, together with the costs and expenses due thereon.

INFORMATION WANTED.

German Consulate Asked to Trace Art Painter in America.

The Imperial German Consulate at Wilmington has been asked to trace an art painter, Albrecht Becker, of Dresden, Germany, formerly a Lieutenant of Reserves, who came to the United States and traveled extensively, earning money by disposing of pictures painted by himself.

The relatives of this man are making strenuous efforts to find him and German Clubs and individuals to whom he may have tried to dispose of the self-painted wares are appealed to for information respecting him. A picture of this man in his uniform may be seen at the office of Mr. James Sprunt in Wilmington.

"The Odeon" Open Again.

The new moving picture theatre, on Market street, will open again tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mr. Dahmer says the damage done by the fire last Monday evening was greatly overestimated and that the damage was very slight. The draperies in the front of the building have all been replaced by woodwork, so there will be no possibility of a repitition of the fire. Mr. Dahmer has purchased a new magazine of the highest grade to replace the one which was damaged by the fire, and also has a new set of films.

AS TO THE REGISTRATION.

Registrars for Recorder's Court Election to be Held May 7th.

Mr. Nathan Schloss, registrar of the Fourth Ward for the election on Recorder's Court informs the Star that he will be at the polling place of that ward (Schloss' stables, No. 10 Dock street), every day for the twenty days, Sundays excepted, for the registration of voters. It is suggested that a similar plan be adopted by all the registrars. They are entitled to $2 per day for their services for the twenty days and certainly they are willing to earn their pay. Under the official call they are required to be at their respective polling places only four days; so unless they decide to register voters elsewhere during the twenty days would receive $40 for four days' work.

The registrars should hold a meeting and adopt some uniform plan. Four days is not sufficient for registration, and citizens should not be expected to engage in a wild hunt for the registrars during sixteen of the twenty days allowed for registration.

The registration in the several wards yesterday progressed very satisfactorily in most precincts though in some it was rather light. In the Second ward there were over 45 registrations alone. In the third precinct of the First ward there were only seven registered.

POLICE COURT ITEMS.

Nine Cases Before His Honor Yesterday at Noon.

In the Mayor's Court yesterday Dick Wilson, colored, on the charge of being drunk and down was ordered to pay $5 and costs.

C. H. Bunn, white, was let off with costs on a charge of being drunk.

Jas. Donelson and Jno. Jones, two pickaninnies, were up for an affray, but the case was dismissed.

Frank Thornton, Chas. Green and Wm. McSorely, white, were charged with vagrancy. Judgment was suspended on condition that they leave the city.

Mayor Pro Tem. O'Brien presided over the session of the court in the absence of Col. Waddell, who is still confined to his home.

LOCAL DOTS.

—The schooner Bayard Hopkins was cleared yesterday, light, for Georgetown, S. C. The vessel is reported by C. D. Maffitt.

—The cases of the negroes who participated in the fracas in East Wilmington last week were before Justice Bornemann yesterday but they asked for and were granted a continuance until Monday afternoon in order that they might employ counsel.

—Raleigh News and Observer says: "Rev. Milton A. Barber, the new assistant at Christ Church, is expected to arrive from Burlington today. He will enter upon his duties as assistant minister tomorrow."

—The monthly meeting of the Hospital Circle of the King's Daughters to have been held next Tuesday has been postponed until 11 A. M. Tuesday, April 16th, at the residence of Mrs. Jas. H. Chadbourn, on South Front street.

—Rev. Kenneth D. Holmes, pastor of Fifth Street M. E. Church, will speak to the mixed meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Boys' Brigade Armory. The music will be by a double quartette with Mr. Alf H. Yopp as accompanist. All are invited.

—The alarm of fire from box 46 at 9:50 o'clock last night was on account of a small blaze at the home of West Yarborough, the well known barber, No. 214 Church street. A defective flue was the cause. The damage was about $5.

—Mr. James F. Woolvin, the funeral director, has moved into his handsome new building on Princess street. It is one of the prettiest places in Wilmington, and is superbly finished and furnished on the interior. A chapel and show room is being fitted up in the rear of the office part of the handsome structure.

—Rev. R. W. Hogue will speak at Brooklyn Baptist Church this afternoon at 5 o'clock in lieu of the usual men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. All the men of the city are invited to hear Mr. Hogue, who is a most engaging speaker and a man heartily in sympathy with the welfare of the young.

—The services in the Christian Church Tabernacle are growing in interest and attendance with each day. The services today will be: Worship and communion at 11 A. M.; subject, "The Two Deaths." At 7:45 P. M., "The Fall and Restoration of Man," a chart sermon. The public in cordially invited, on Fourth street, between Princess and Chestnut.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Richter will celebrate their crystal wedding on Monday evening at their hospitable home, No. 609 Ann street. Their many friends will call to pay their respects and it is certain that they will be most pleasantly entertained by the host and hostess of the evening. No invitation cards have been issued, but all the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Richter are expected.

MAX FIGMAN EXCELLENT

"The Man on the Box" Was All to the Good.

In spite of the raw, damp weather last evening a large audience at the Academy of Music were supremely delighted with the production of "The Man on the Box" by Mr. Max Figman and a clever supporting company. Mr. Figman established himself as a light comedian of the most scintillating type and there were several in the cast who gave him just the clever sppport that may or may not have been needed. The pity is that the "Man on the Box" drifted in on a Saturday night when the audience was necessarily not as large as it should have been. Mr. Figman can come and have the town just whenever and however he likes.

The President yesterday appointed Daniel A. Campbell, of Chicago, to be postmaster of that city to succeed Fred A. Busse, who has been elected to the mayoralty.

the morning and was attended by Dr. R. H. Bellamy. Later he was much better and fears entertained that the case might have to be concluded on his account were dispelled. During the day two messages reached His Honor from the bailiff in charge that the jurors were hopelessly divided and that they desired very much to be relieved. Judge Long, however, thought proper to keep them together a while longer and it was after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon before they were brought into open court again. At that hour Juror Gore again said that they were hopelessly divided and there was not the remotest possibility of an agrement. Judge Long then offered for the purpose of refreshing their memories to read his notes of the evidence if any member would signify his desire in that respect by raising his hand. None of them desired to hear the notes. Judge Long then asked them, stating that it was entirely proper, to furnish them in writing with the salient features of his charge to them if any member would signify his desire for the same. The jury, however, stood pat and there was no desire for the charge. Judge Long then went very carefully into the line of demarcation between the duties of the jury and the court and said that he hoped they would be able to reach some conclusion by 10 o'clock at night at which time he would be on hand promptly.

At 10:25 o'clock last night, all of counsel not being present at the appointed hour of 10, the jury was again brought out in open court and asked if there was then any possibility of an agreement. Mr. Gore promptly replied in the negative. Judge Long then explained how it was possible for him to keep them together indefinitely if he was of the opinion that the ends of justice would be met by such action. Mr. Gore stated that he didn't think any length of confinement would bring them any nearer an agreement. "Is that the unanimous opinion, gentlemen?" inquired Judge Long. Each juror nodded his assent. The judge confessed that their reply was a disappointment and stated that he had tried to perform the duties of his office as he should; that he had never before had but two juries but which had been able to reach an agreement and one of those was on account of circumstances which made it necessary for him to discharge them. The other as now, he was unable to account for. Sometimes judges were not considerate enough of juries and that had something to do with failure to agree. In this case he hoped such was not true as he had tried to be as considerate of them as possible. Mr. Gore stated that the judge had been most considerate, and that nothing had been left undone to assist them. The order as quoted above was then made.

Mr. Gore, in behalf of the jury, at the conclusion of the whole matter, thanked Judge Long for his kindly interest in them and their comfort, to which the judge replied gratefully, saying that he had only done his duty as he saw it.

When the case was all over Juror Merritt was recalled to the box and Judge Long made some rather startling observations as to the manifest existence of a red-light district in Wilmington. He prefaced his remarks by saying that 11 o'clock tomorrow some of the jurors would no doubt have the collection plate passed around to them for a contribution for foreign missions. He then took up the existence of a red-light district in Wilmington, referring to the two young men whose lives had been blasted and two homes desolated by the presence of these dens of vice in civilized Wilmington, the boasted metropolis of North Carolina. Instead of sending money to Christianize the Chinamen, while not disparaging the work of missions, he left a broad inference that the jury as citizens should turn their attention to ridding the community of this red-light area. He was not preaching a sermon, he said, but if he were a minister of the gospel he would proclaim the doctrine of the salvation of young men from the street corners.

When the judge had finished the court was adjourned sine die and friends of the prisoner came forward to shake his hand and to express the hope that he would be admitted to bond. Among those in the court room were three sisters and a brother of the accused, who had seats in the enclosure for the bar. The crowd left the court room reluctantly and discussed all phases of the case and the probabilities of acquittal next time. Young Snipes will remain in jail until tomorrow and he will then be brought into court again while argument is had to His Honor on the question of his admission to bail.

WILMINGTON'S PROGRESS.

Mr. McIntosh Has Good Word to Say of His Town in Raleigh.

The Raleigh News and Observer of yesterday has the following:

"Mr. D. M. McIntosh, of the insurance department of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, was here yesterday from Wilmington, on business connected with his field of operation.

"He says there is a great deal of building going on in Wilmington at the present and that the city is obviously taking on new life. He says the city by the sea is not the old-time happy-go-lucky city of years ago, content with its own life and way of doing things, but that it is now thoroughly progressive and is alive and wide awake to its opportunities."

An Open Letter to The Investing Public.

During the past two weeks all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange have declined greatly in value, and our local favorites, Atlantic Coast Line, Common, and Louisville & Nashville have been no exception to the rule. In a declining market good stocks decline as well as the bad ones, and this will explain in a way, why the above mentioned stocks have declined so severely. In a declining market it seems to be a rule of human nature to get Pessimistic, when nine times out of ten, it is the time to be Optimistic. The experienced operator in stocks waits for just such opportunities as we have recently had and goes down into his jeans for the cold hard cash and buys. In times such as we've witnessed recently it takes SOME CASH, and A LIBERAL AMOUNT OF NERVE, to buy stocks, but if you expect to make any money it is necessary to have both. When securities are selling at low prices many investment opportunities are presented, but the average investor does not see the opportunity until it is too late. He then figures out what he might have made had he done so and so. On the other hand, the average investor who has bought at a low price holds out for the last cent of profit, and in many instances sees his profits melt away like a snow ball in a Summer's Sun, and winds up where he started.

We have been asked many times recently what we thought of A. C. L., Common, and Louisville & Nashville. Our invariable reply has been that we believe they represent real value, and that this value will endure, but no human being can tell what the future will bring forth. We believe, however, that the South will increase in prosperity from year to year (with occasional set-backs), and with increasing prosperity in this section, the railroads traversing it will share in it.

If you have the capital and some of the necessary nerve, we will furnish the balance of the nerve required, but you must not expect us to furnish all of it.

We have executed orders for many hundreds of shares of stocks during the past few weeks and in no instance have we been unable to execute orders for stocks at market prices, or the negotiation of loans. We are amply prepared to execute orders for the purchase or sale of any of the above securities at market prices, and are also prepared to negotiate loans, for responsible parties, at current rates of interest, on these stocks as collateral. As it is impossible to explain matters in detail in a limited space, we invite interviews any day during business hours, regarding these matters. You are under no obligations whatever to do anything, unless you see fit to do so.

As stated by us on former occasions we do not buy on margin, but buy all stocks outright.

PLOT THICKENS SAYS ROOSEVELT

President Receiving Letters Giving Details of That Rich Men's Conspiracy.

WRITERS HIRED FOR ATTACK

Disclosures Have Stirred Up Considerable Feeling—Some Senators Make Mysterious Calls at White House—President Mum

Washington, March .6—President Roosevelt is receiving a great many letters from different sections of the country regarding the combination which it is asserted has been formed to defeat, at the coming Presidential campaign, the policies of Mr. Roosevelt. Information as to the identity of the writers and the precise nature of their communications is withheld, but those who are close to the President say the disclosures have stirred up considerable feeling.

The location and date of the dinner, and the personnel of the party attending it, at which the plot is said to have been elaborated, remain a secret so far as any information at the White House is vouchsafed. "You gentlemen are all wrong as to the details of the dinner," is all that Secretary Loeb would tell the newspaper men today, except to indicate that the affair was of an informal characer and that the disclosures came out in an informal manner. Senator Bourne, of Oregon, it has been commonly reported, was the host at the dinner, while the guests included, among others, Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, and Delegate Andrews of New Mexico. Comment was made upon the fact that all three of these gentlemen were at the White House today, and talked with the President. None of the callers would make any statement on the subject nor would any of them admit that his call at the White House had any connection with the matter.

Secretary Loeb said Senator Bourne had called on the President to discuss some land office appointments which had been hanging fire for a long time.

Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania whose name has been freely used in connection with the disclosures of the alleged plot, has not communicated with the White House since the story became public, according to Secretary Loeb, who stated today that the only information received there about him has come from the newspapers. When a report that Senator Penrose was going to the White House to talk about the matter with the President was called to Secretary Loeb's attention the latter said:

"I have made no statement about him and the Senator has nothing to deny to me."

MISS WELLMAN MARRIED

Daughter of Walter Wellman Bride of Virginia.

Washington, April 6.—Miss Rose Wellman, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wellman, and Mr. Leroy Chamberlain, of Virginia, were married this afternoon at the home of the bride's parents in this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roger Tyler, rector of Christ Episcopal church, Hamilton, Va. The bride and groom left upon an early afternoon train for Chicago, where they will reside. Mr. Walter Wellman, the father of the bride, who will attempt to reach the North Pole in an air ship this Summer, came from Paris to attend the ceremony.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, owners of the Wilson exchange, is putting in a new system, the cable system being used. Work on the company's exchange building will commence this month.

—Wilson's new $20,000 office building on Tarboro street is nearly completed and will be occupied this month It is learned that all the offices in the building have been rented. The Masonic lodge will occupy the third floor.

—The Wells-Whiteheal Tobacco Company is making extensive alterations in their factory at Wilson. New engines, boilers and other machinery have been installed and the output of the factory has been sonsiderably increased.

—Mr. James Lanier died at his home in Raleigh on Friday. He was the father of James Lanier, the smallest man in the State, whose home is Raleigh, and who is widely known, having been the chief page of the State Senate at the two last sessions.

Governor Glenn has appoined Rev. Daniel Ailbright Long, of Graham, and Professor F. S. Blair, of Guilford College, delegates from North Carolina to the National Arbitration and Peace Conference at New York to be held April 14.

—The baseball enthusiasts of Wilson are getting up a stock company to finance a ball club this season. The cash capital will be $2,500. Mr. J. C. Eagles has consusented to manage the club, and he will this month get together a club which is expected to be second to none in the State.

—Fayetteville, April 4: At the meeting of the board of county commissioners held yesterday the contract was given to the New York Oswego Bridge Company for the construction of the steel bridge over Lock's Creek, just east of the Clarendon bridge, at a cost of $6,350.

Raleigh, April 5: Deputy Insurance Scott has returned here from Newbern, where he swore out warrants for two white men on the charge of burning a tug boat in order to put a rival out of business. One was arrested, the other having fled immediately.

—Louisburg, April 5: News reached here tonight of a homicide today at Hall's Cross Roads on the border of Franklin and Wake. A man named Pullen, it is said, entered the store of W. Henry Perry and shot him, killing Perry instantly. The trouble arose over a dispute about some machinery. Though full facts are unobtainable tonight, Deputy Sheriff Kearney has gone to the scene.

—Raleigh, April 5: Deputy Revenue Collector Downing has returned from a raid in Jones county, having information of an illicit distillery in Tuckahoe township, but when he arrived at the place found that Deputy Marshal Brock was early in the field and had captured Jonah Houston, the operator, and also the still, and had placed both in jail. Houston was making rum from molasses and was very busy indeed when Block came up on him.

—Charlotte Observer, April 6: Mr. James B. Blades, of Newbern, one of the most progressive business men in eastern North Carolina, spent a few hours in the city yesterday morning with his friend, Mr. Julian H. Little, president of the Charlotte Trust Company. Mr. Blades is a millionaire and a most agreeable gentleman. He is interested in a number of the leading insurance companies of the tate, being president of the Dixie Fire and a large stockholder in the North States Fire, the Greensboro Life, and the North State Fire, the Greensboro Life, and the North State Life. In addition to his other holdings he is the owner of large timber interests and a factor of great importance in the industrial life of the State.

—Marshville, April 5: A disastrous fire broke out here this morning and did $30,000 damage. The fire started at the cotton platform about 12 o'clock where 390 bales of cotton stood, most of which went up in smoke. From the platform the fire crossed to the warehouse of M. K. Lee; then to Marsh Bros., Harrell & Griffith, the Marsh Fertilizer Factory and a blacksmith shop. Everything on the north side of the railroad track below Bailey's stable was consumed. Two bax cars were also burned. The depot, hotel and other buildings were saved by heroic work of the citizens. The fire is thought to have started from sparks from a passing engine. During the fire there were two gasoline explosions—which, of course, served to spread the flames more rapidly. The damage done is roughly estimated at $30,000; insurance about $15,000.

SHORT STORIES.

Easter occurs this year on March 31, more than three weeks earlier than the Easter date of 1906.

A carved war god, recently discovered in a Colorado cave, is believed to be more than 1,000 years old.

There are about 4,000 lepers in Colombia, or one to every 1,000 inhabitants. Most of them are now isolated. Cases are rarely found among the classes living with hygienic care.

The Doukhobors of Winnipeg are gradually recovering their senses. They no longer turn horses and cattle loose and harness themselves to the plow, but, on the contrary, are now purchasing horses for farm labor.

The obligation to accept American currency as legal tender in Cuba is said to have constituted a part of the dissatisfaction which exists in that island. It is complained that there is not enough of such currency to meet the requirements of trade.

LAST WORDS OF FAMOUS MEN

Louis XIV. of France (1638-1715), "I thought dying had been harder."

William Ewart Gladstone (1809-1898), British statesman, "Amen."

Phillips Brooks (1835-1893), American clergyman, "I am going home."

Lord Chesterfield (1694-1773), English courtier, "Give the doctor a chair."

Henry Havelock (1795-1857), English general, "Tell my son to come and see how a Christian can die"

PITH AND POINT.

Some dogs, like some men, just naturally can't get along.

Not all people can be clever, but most of us can do a little better than we do.

When you are so unfortunate as to get into a lawsuit plead guilty unless you get the best lawyer.

What a poet calls "inspiration" is probably the same thing the gambling fraternity calls a "hunch."

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Velvet dotted veils with borders of velvet ribbon are pretty and becoming.

Among the dark colors which are most popular with milliners is a warm, golden brown, or "mordore," which looks equally well in velvet and felt.

Bretelle and suspender effects figure conspicuously in the designs for soft silks, and silks incidentally are enjoying an unwonted prestige for semi-dress as well as for full dress wear.

The vogue for embroidery has spread to headgear, and one of the most recent innovations consists in covering the hat of felt, beaver or velvet with the same embroidery which is seen on the gown.

HEALTH OF WOMEN

In this nineteenth century to keep up with the march of progress every power of woman is strained to its utmost, and the tax upon her physical system is far greater than ever.

In the good old-fashioned days of our grandmothers few drugs were used in medicines. They relied upon roots and herbs to cure weaknesses and disease, and their knowledge of roots and herbs was far greater than that of women today.

It was in this study of roots and herbs that Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., discovered and gave to the women of the world a remedy more potent and efficacious than any combination of drugs.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an honest, tried and true remedy of unquestionable therapeutic value.

This medicine made from native roots and herbs contains no narcotics or other harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

Mrs. C. E. Fink, of Carnegie, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I wish every suffering woman would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to you for advice. It has done me a world of good and what it has accomplished for me I know it will do for others."

When women are troubled with Irregularities, Displacements, Ulceration, Inflammation, Backache, Nervous Prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience she probably has the very knowledge that will help your case.

The Making of a Successful Husband

By CASPAR S. YOST.

Advice From a Man of Experience on the Difficult Business of Choosing a Wife—Proceed Carefully, Let the Engagement Be Brief and Have the Ceremony as It Should Be.

[Copyright, 1905, by C. S. Yost.]

MY DEAR BOY—I have just received your letter announcing your engagement to Miss Anna May Jackson. I don't know whether to congratulate you or not. So much depends upon the girl, you know. If I could see her and have a ten minutes' chat with her, I could tell whether you have drawn a prize or a blank. As it is, I shall trust to Providence and hope for the best.

Your description is entertaining, but not very informing. You say that she "is as beautiful as Aurora upon a summer morn," that her eyes are "filled with heaven's own blue," that her "hair is a golden aureole surmounting a marble brow," and her cheeks are "like the rosebud kissed by the enamored sun."

There is something reminiscent about this, as the critics say when they want to accuse a writer of plagiarism and are afraid of a libel suit. I distinctly remember writing something of the same sort about a girl I was sweet on before I met your mother. I saw her on the car the other day. She has grown pudgy, her chin has disappeared, and her circumference is greatest at the waist line.

Beauty Not Indispensable.

I gather from your poetic if somewhat moldy description nothing more than that the young lady is a blond and a tolerably good looker, and I mention this, old flame of mine to impress you with the fact that while Aurora is all right in the spring and summer she begins to look quite different when the time comes to lay in coal. Beauty, my boy, is a mighty good thing. Your mother was the prettiest girl I ever saw or ever hope to see—begging your pardon—and she is still the most beautiful woman this side the pearly gates, in my estimation, but you can't reasonably expect to be as fortunate as your father in that particular. Beauty is a very desirable, but not a necessary attribute of a wife, and a man stands a mighty poor chance of permanent happiness who banks on it alone. It isn't always desirable even. It is likely to produce vanity, and vanity, besides several other disagreeable features, leads to extravagance. I won't stop to tell you what extravagance leads to. It would fill a book, and there would be nothing comfortable in the whole volume.

I saw her on the car.

Reminds me of an old friend, one of these art enthusiasts, who fell in love with a flat because of its impressive "facade." He didn't stop to investigate what was back of the "facade," but took a lease at a pretty stiff figure. He wanted a "facade," and he got it good and plenty, as I've heard you remark. Within a month he found that everything behind that artistic front was a heartbreaking sham. The plaster cracked and dropped on his head in painful chunks; the doors sagged and refused to shut without a lavish expenditure of power and profanity; the furnace could be induced to supply nothing but refrigerated air—and he had a lease. It's probably too late, but, my dear boy, before you close the deal get back of the "facade" if you can.

Not Always a Lottery.

You have been always a pretty level headed youngster, and I have great hopes that you have chosen wisely. Indeed, I get considerable encouragement from the way she spells her names as they were given to her when she was christened. It indicates that if she ever had any silly stage she has passed through it safely. Our Annyes and Mayes and Ellyns are all afflicted with a mental weakness that doesn't do any particular harm if they get over it. As a rule they do, but if they don't Lord help their husbands! After all, though, the average American girl has a mighty good substratum of common sense, and if a man goes into it with his eyes wide open marriage isn't such a lottery as it's cracked up to be. That lottery theory is based on the idea—an idea that all who wear trousers are apt to accept without question — that man, myself in particular, is all right. "The risk is all on my side," says he to himself. "The woman that gets me ought to consider herself in luck." As a matter of fact, there are more masculine than feminine blanks in this world, and when a man contemplates marriage he ought first to consider his own qualifications—get 'em out and look at 'em through a microscope and don't let any personal bias interfere with a proper focus.

The doors sagged.

In the first place, am I able to support a wife—the wife I have in mind? Given the proper financial backing, are my habits and disposition such that a sensitive and sensible woman can live with me for a lifetime without an occasional desire to jump into the river? Few men stop to consider that side of the proposition, and when the wheels of the matrimonial wagon begin to creak they wonder what's the matter. Talk about the divorce evil! If woman wasn't the most long suffering creature on the face of the earth, all the courts of Christendom would be filled with divorce cases. But that's a digression. As I was saying, take stock of yourself and then consider the girl.

Sense Better Than Learning.

The main thing to be desired in a woman is sense. And by that I don't mean education. It's a mighty fine thing to be on speaking terms with the classics, and a knowledge of the higher mathematics and Browning's poems does no particular harm if it isn't allowed to stick out, but education beyond the grammar school course is not an essential. Don't deceive yourself into thinking learning an indication of brains or occasional silliness a lack of them. Some of the biggest fools I ever knew, male and female, were chuck full of facts and figures and quotations and other mental lumber that didn't do them or anybody else any good. I don't mean to belittle the value of learning. No one appreciates it more than I do. But it doesn't spell sense. On the other hand, all normal boys and girls pass through a silly period, and most all grown people have occasional lapses in that direction, a sort of cerebral vacation, which is sometimes beneficial to the individual if not always edifying to others. But the possession of a practical workaday intelligence will stick out in spite of all that nature or teachers may do to cover it up, and if you can come down from the clouds long enough to take stock you should be able to satisfy yourself on that point if you haven't already done so.

Chuck full of quotations.

You notice I don't ask you about Miss Jackson's fortune. I don't care whether she has a red cent or not. In fact, I hope she hasn't, for the poor man who marries a fortune is up against one of the hardest propositions our sex can have to contend with. Unless he has character and strength of purpose far beyond the ordinary he is almost sure to degenerate, to become a mere appendage, of less value to himself and the world than one of his wife's servants. If the girl you expect to marry has money, see to it that she keeps it, and keeps it where you can't get at it. Hoe your own row.

There's only one way to make a man, and digging for a home is the process. If she has nothing, you can start even and pull together, and I tell you, my boy, there's nothing in this world so heartens a man as a willing woman hitched to the same load. If she have sense and love she will pull, too, harder perhaps than you can, but if she be a fool, no matter how she may be veneered with the graces of society, no matter how erudite she may be, she will balk or kick over the traces, and if she doesn't spill the load she'll make it all the harder for you to draw. So I say that a few grains of plain common sense are of more importance in a wife than beauty, money or culture. If Miss Jackson has it, then I say go ahead, and your mother and I will give you our blessing and something else.

Don't fool around about it either. I don't believe in long engagements. There is nothing so wearing on a woman as a protracted wedding. If you have no debts and enough money in your pocket or the bank to pay the preacher and furnish up a little flat, don't put off the day any longer than is necessary for her to get ready. As a rule, a girl wants a few months, perhaps a year, for preparation; a man in the first enthusiasm of acceptance wants to be married tomorrow, today, right now. The girl is right. The altar should not be boarded like a delayed trolley car. Take your time, but not too much time. The engagement period has its psychical as well as its material purpose. It is a period of preparation of mind and heart as well as of raiment.

It is an important factor in the making of future happiness, and it should never be skipped unless circumstances are exceptional. But it should not be allowed to linger beyond the reasonable time necessary for preparation. It is the man who wants to marry on the spot, and it is usually the man who causes the repeated postponement of the wedding. Either he grows indifferent or thinks it necessary to increase his financial resources, and the longer he delays the harder it is to fix the date, while the girl can do nothing but wait and wonder and doubt. Then is the time when "hope deferred maketh the heart sick" sure enough. Don't let your engagement continue more than a year. Three or six months should be long enough.

Decently and In Order.

When you get married, have it done right. Don't go frisking out to a suburban justice of the peace to have the knot tied without trouble and without ceremony. Next to your birth and your death it's the most important event of your life. Your funeral may be an imposing one, but you will not be in a position to appreciate it. You will play second fiddle at your wedding, but it's your show nevertheless, and you should make it as impressive as you can. I don't mean by that to encourage lavish expenditure. Gorgeous decorations and all that sort of thing detract from the true feature of the occasion. That, however, is none of your affair. The bride's parents attend to that. The point I am trying to make is that the wedding should take place in the presence of a number of invited guests, as many as practicable. Whether at home or at church doesn't particularly matter, although I prefer a church wedding because it can be made more impressive and because of the deeper religious significance. When I use the word impressive, I don't want it applied to the witnesses, but to you and to the girl you stand up with. It is upon you, both of you, that the impression should be made, and it ought to be strong enough and deep enough to keep you trotting along together for the remainder of your life. I have noticed that these fly by night, "let's go out and get married" weddings are responsible for a large proportion of the divorce cases in our courts. It's like the come easy, go easy money of the gambler. You ought to get the idea of the solemnity and responsibility of marriage pumped into yourself and your sweetheart until you are both saturated with it. Then walk up to the altar with joy in your hearts, and if you can't live happy ever after it won't be the fault of the preacher.

Don't go frisking out to a suburban justice.

Now, my dear boy, I neither suppose nor expect you will pay the slightest attention to anything I have said. As I heard an alleged comedian remark the other night, "I just had it on my chest, and it had to come off." Yours truly,

JOHN SNEED.

Three Man Wine.

The best Rhenish wine is scarcely plentiful enough to furnish an average of one drink for every three Germans. The worst, on the contrary, is so bad that it takes three men to get one drink down its natural channel. Near Gottingen is the little town called Witzenhausen, which has long been famous, or, rather, infamous, for a kind of wine known as the "dreimannerwein," because it requires one man to drink it, a second to hold him and a third to pour it down his throat. Here also is located Germany's first and only colonial school, founded by some wealthy adherents of the colonial policy on which Emperor William has just won a victory over the Socialists in the reichstag. The school was opened in 1899, with room for seventy students, which is not nearly enough for all who apply. A special feature is the segregation of the students in dormitories to keep them out of taverns, as it is well known that nothing is so disastrous to the whites in the tropics as "tropenholler," from habits of alcoholic indulgence. Here is where the "three man wine" helps the temperance cause. —New York World.

Dreaming a Derby Winner.

I dare say that every year one or more people dream of the Derby winner, because thousands of people are guessing in their dreams, and two or three guess right. Take the Favonius case. A man came to an acquaintance of mine and said, "What is the Latin for the southwest wind?" "Favonius," said my friend. "That's the name," said the other. "I dreamed last night that Favonius won the Derby, but I could only remember that southwest wind was the English of the word when I awoke." There was no Favonius in the list of horses, but on reaching the race course the men found that "the Zephyr colt" had been newly named — Favonius. Probably the name Zephyr (west wind) colt had been converted into Favonius (southwest wind) in the sleeping mind of the dreamer, though when awake he could not remember the Latin word for southwest wind. Favonius won. The dream was a good guess, no more.—Andrew Lang in Independent.

A Troublesome Comma.

One more instance of the power of punctuation. Even a comma may play the very deuce. Not many years ago a distinguished graduate of Oxford decided to enter the nonconformist ministry and to wear no sacerdotal garb. And he announced this intention in a manifesto containing the words, "I shall wear no clothes, to distinguish me from my fellow Christians." That delightful comma made him the laughingstock of the university and the joy of the picture shops, whose windows were flooded with illustrations of the Rev. X. Y. Z. distinguishing himself from his fellow Christians. — London Chronicle.

The Making of a Successful Husband

By CASPAR S. YOST.

A Chapter on That Delectable Matrimonial Sequence, the Honeymoon—Do Not Permit It to Come to a Speedy End, but Cherish It and Prolong It Indefinitely.

[Copyright, 1905, by C. S. Yost.]

MY DEAR BOY—Your mother and I have just returned from the wedding in which you were, to us, the most interesting if not the most conspicuous figure. It was a great wedding; never saw anything quite so pretty in my life. Everything was in good taste, and you went through your part like a little man. I was almost proud of you.

And the bride! My boy, I believe you've discovered something that's better than a gold mine. Unless my judgment is mightily at fault, she's all right. Your mother is just as well pleased as I am, and that's saying a great deal for her, for she never could see any girl quite good enough for you. You know she doesn't hesitate to say whom she likes or dislikes, and she usually settles the point on sight, so I was very uneasy, as no doubt you were, about the way Mrs. John Junior would strike her. But she took to her new daughter-in-law like a duck to an orphan chick, and I attach more importance to that than I do to my own judgment.

Why, she's so tickled that she persists in waking me up in the middle of the night just to have an audience while she disposes of a stock of adjectives that would astonish a Frenchman. You little know, my boy, how much she has missed you since you went out to wrestle with fortune on your own hook, and you can hardly appreciate what a concession it is for her to look with favor upon this young woman who has taken possession of you. After awhile you will understand, but not now.

Waking me up in the middle of the night.

Angels Without Wings.

I suppose you are pretty well along with your honeymoon by this time, and unless your lot is different from that of other mortals you have made some discoveries. You have found, I don't doubt, that the wings you supposed were full fledged haven't even sprouted. That is the amazing discovery every newly married man makes, and the quicker he makes it and becomes reconciled the better it is for his future welfare.

Angels are all well enough in pictures, but they would certainly grate on our nerves if we had to associate with them. Nor is perfection to be desired in a genuine flesh and blood woman. This would be a mighty tiresome world if all of us did exactly as we ought. It is mainly our faults and the faults of others that furnish us the diversion that makes life worth while. That isn't strictly orthodox, but it's true, and I believe it will continue to be true as long as humanity retains that innate cussedness which dominates it.

Don't infer, however, that I consider imperfections and attractions to increase in corresponding ratio. A little salt is necessary to make your food palatable, but a very little more will spoil it. A faultless wife is likely to be insipid, and good, healthy imperfections should rather be cause for rejoicing than lament. So, my boy, when you find one in your dear little bride, don't have a conniption fit, but make a note of it, and when you get an opportunity analyze it tenderly. They may keep you pretty busy for awhile, but when you get them all classified you will have that intimate acquaintance which is absolutely essential to domestic happiness. A long while ago somebody said, "Man, know thyself!" and I would paraphrase that and, I believe, improve it by saying, "Man, know thy wife!" It's much more important. On the other hand, it is just as necessary that the wife know the husband, but I don't care to discuss that side of the question. I don't feel competent.

Angels are all well enough in pictures.

Reform Your Faults, Not Hers.

You may wonder that I don't suggest a study of your wife's virtues. Lord bless you, my boy, you don't need to study them. They will fall upon you and envelop you and permeate you, and all you have to do is to appreciate them and give frequent evidence of your appreciation. Virtues seldom cause domestic trouble unless they are allowed to become aggressively active, and then, as a rule, they cease to be virtues. Just confine your attention to her faults. If these are little ones, be thankful and let them alone. If any should look to be serious, don't try to remove them with an ax. You are likely to sprain your arm and dull the tool. Treat them with tact and patience and love, and in the course of time, perhaps a long time, you can so modify them that they will become unobjectionable or even likable.

All this, however, presupposes some attention to your own failings, which are probably more numerous and more pronounced than hers, and in the case of a man there are more circumstances which call for the use of a metaphorical surgical instrument. If you don't wield it yourself, the little girl ought to, and if you need it she will unless I am mistaken in my judgment of her. But you can't treat a woman's faults in that way. Dictation, opposition, force, may get results, but it will be at the expense of happiness. You can't run a home as you would a factory. Your wife is not a servant or your inferior in anything but physical strength. Besides, she is a woman and as such is entitled to the fullest measure of that chivalric courtesy which every gentleman owes to the other sex. That she is your wife increases your obligation in this respect. I have heard of women who doubted their husbands' love if they neglected the periodical beating, but I never saw any of that class, and I doubt their existence. No; the only way to correct a woman's fault, if it really needs correction, is by a pressure so gentle she never suspects its existence, applied with the patient persistence that is in all things irresistible. You know that in the grinding of a lens for a great telescope the final work is done with the palm of the bare hand. If you bend a twig sharply, it will break, but if you bend it gently and secure it in its new position you can by constant repetition of the process mold it to any form you desire. So the ideal husband and wife consciously and unconsciously mold each other's disposition. Domestic happiness, my son, is the highest form of bliss attainable on earth, and it is worth all the trouble it generally takes to secure it.

A Perpetual Honeymoon.

The popular idea of the honeymoon is a period of a few weeks immediately following the wedding during which the couple skylark around over the country, making spectacles of themselves for the amusement of anybody who happens to be observing them. It is a period of unrestrained billing and cooing by the end of which they are supposed to have become satiated and return home to settle down to a practical, everyday life in which love and its outward manifestations are not expected to figure to any great extent. I sincerely hope you will not take that view of it. The honeymoon should not be subject to limitations of place or of time. As a mere outing it should be made brief; as a sentimental condition, modified by the activities and necessities that demand bread and butter at regular intervals, it should continue until death breaks the bond. I have been married thirty years and am still in the midst of my honeymoon, and I hope to see this moon in its meridian for many years to come. You should never cease to be lovers. I can see no reason why the return to earth should cause an entire change of relations. Some people seem to think that the tender little attentions which mark the period of courtship and that immediately follow the wedding are incompatible with the struggle for a living; that the kiss, the caress, the little compliments, are not only unnecessary, but even foolish. If you desire happiness as nearly absolute as possible here below, don't make that mistake.

I can see no reason why the return to earth should cause an entire change.

Love Is Not All.

Love alone is not sufficient for a woman. She hungers for its outward and visible manifestation, and it is a hunger that can never be fully appeased. A man can rest content in the confidence of his wife's affection and doesn't worry if she neglects to express it in words or actions, but she is of different fiber. She wants to hear you say "I love you" once in awhile, to feel your arm steal around her and your lips pressed to hers. She never grows weary of these things, and she never grows too old to appreciate them. Their neglect is the beginning of indifference, and indifference is love's deadliest foe.

Without love marriage degenerates first to a mere convenience and then to a condition of bondage in which iron chains take the place of roses, chains which the divorce courts are too often called upon to sever. If you do not give your wife frequent evidence of your affection, you will have only yourself to blame if she turns to some one else for that which her nature demands. No; you cannot possibly attach too much importance to these seemingly insignificant things. They are the very foundations of domestic happiness. You may provide a comfortable home and every material desire of her heart, you may treat her with courtesy and kindness, you may give her high social position, but if she loves you all these are as nothing if unaccompanied by the purely sentimental expressions of your own affection for her. With visible love she will live happily in the humblest cottage.

Some people would smile at this. Some would call it an old fashioned idea that has no place in the advanced civilization of today. The mountains and the hills, the lakes and the rivers, are old fashioned, and they are no more immutable than human nature, of which love is the highest expression. In spite of all of our culture, men and women, under the veneer, are just the same as they were when Pan played his pipes in the groves of Arcadia. We are as God made us, and while we may develop the brain we can't alter its composition, nor can we eradicate the love longing from a woman's heart. So let her have all she wants.

Keep the Lovelight Burning.

I am writing all this now because I want to keep you from settling down in the all too customary way after your return from your wedding trip. You will have to resume the chase after dollars, and you'll have to sprint a little faster than before, but that won't justify you in putting the little girl up on a shelf like a piece of valuable bric-a-brac nor in shoving her back into the kitchen to become your cook. She is neither a goddess to be worshiped from afar nor a menial to be bossed at close range. She is just a delightful bundle of flesh and blood and nerves, designed for everyday wear and attaining her highest happiness in loving and helping you.

Do all you can, therefore, to keep that lovelight burning brightly, for if you are the right sort your own happiness will be based upon hers. Love her always and let her know, let her know, let her know that you love her. That is the fatal mistake of so many—keeping their love to themselves, as if it were something to be ashamed of, until continual suppression extinguishes it entirely. Exercise is as necessary to love as it is to all attributes of life, physical, mental or spiritual. This is not theory, but fact, which has been proved over and over again since the world began, and my own experience does not differ from that of countless thousands of others who bear testimony to its truth.

Putting the little girl upon the shelf.

Your mother reminds me that it is time for me to be in bed, so I must bring this epistle to a close. With love to the new Mrs. Sneed—God bless her—I remain your affectionate father,

JOHN SNEED.

English Pronunciation.

There is a village in north Devon which the signposts call Wolfardisworthy, but which we have heard pronounced "Woolserthy." Very likely, however, if you went there and pronounced it so you would be reproved for the contraction.

This was what happened to us at Cirencester. Passing through that town we were solemnly corrected for calling it "Cicester." On the other hand, when wandering in Norfolk and drawing nigh to a place which was marked on the map "Happisburgh," we found ourselves quite unintelligible because we did not pronounce it "Hazebro."

Even in English the difference between sight and sound is confined to a small minority of words, though some people seem to be of the same opinion as a young Hanoverian lady of our acquaintance who naively remarked: "You English do pronounce so strangely! There is your great author. You spell him D-i-c-k-e-n-s, and you pronounce him Boz."—London Spectator.

Why They Wished to Prolong Life.

It is curious to note the inadequacy of the objects for which men would seem to wish to prolong their days. Collingwood, as his epitaph informs us, "a pious, just and exemplary man," would have liked to have had another blow at the French. Lord Peterborough, Pope's contemporary, desired to live in order "to give that rascal (Bishop Burnet) the lie in half his history"—an aspiration of which he proved the sincerity by carrying with him the volumes, carefully marked, when, already believed to be dying, he went to Lisbon. And Bentley, making up his mind to reach the age of eighty and no further, observed that "it was an age long enough to read everything worth reading."—London Standard.

Too Bad.

There is a sweet girl in Washington with a most saintly patience, but even she could not resist the temptation recently to let fly a little arrow. He was about nineteen, but weary, oh, very weary! He had made a call of perhaps two hours, and she also was beginning to feel some slight fatigue.

"I never get over a thing, you know," he said sadly. "I really never expect to care for a woman again. I made a fool of myself over one once."

"And you never get over anything? Too bad!" she said sympathetically. And he smoked a whole box of cigarettes thinking it over afterward.

Brighter Prospects
Increase Your Yields Per Acre!
We have many natural photographs of cotton fields on which no fertilizers were used and pictures of fields on which "other makes" of fertilizers were used. Results of these crops were dismal failures. There are much brighter prospects ahead for the progressive farmers of the South. Two and three bales to the acre are only ordinary yields where Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers
are used with proper cultivation. Make your cotton mature early, and thus escape the boll weevil and other damaging insects. You can easily do this, as well as increase the number of bolls (and their size) on your plants by plentifully using Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers. This method will tremendously "increase your yields per acre." Don't be fooled into buying a substitute.

TWELFTH WEEK OF THAW TRIAL

Fate of Slayer of Stanford White Will Be Settled This Week.

MAY GO TO JURY THURSDAY

District Attorney Jerome Will Contend for Verdict to Send Millionaire to Electric Chair—Defense Contends for Acquittal.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

New York, April 6.—That the long drawn out Thaw trial now in its twelfth week, will be finished this coming week now seems almost certain. There is no sign of any more of the delays which have marked the case from the very beginning. There have been so many surprises, however, so many delays, that the case already has been extended long beyond the time ever before required to try a murder case in New York.

Dr. Allan C. McLane Hamilton, the alienist who was on the stand when the case was, suddenly stopped by the district attorney's suggestions for the appointment of a commision in lunacy, will probably be recalled to the stand when the trial is remused on Monday. He already has testified that he believes Thaw was insane when he shot Stanford White and will be asked to repeat that statement, the lunacy commission having decided that Thaw is now sane.

Whether or not the defense will call any more witnesses is problematic. It is stated that they expect to require no more than an hour to complete their case. If this is true, there is no reason why the case should not go to the jury on Thursday.

District Attorney Jerome said tonight that he had no more witnesses whose evidence he would try to place before the jury. It has been rumored that Mr. Jerome would attempt to put several new witnesses on the stand after the final close of the defense's case, but his statement tonight puts that rumor to rest.

Mr. Delmas will probably begin his argument on Monday. He should finish on Tuesday. Mr. Jerome still says that he will not consume more than one day, and, therefore, at the least he should complete his argument on Wednesday. Justice Fitzgerald's charge to the jury should not require more than three or four hours, and it is, therefore, very possible that the case will be in the jury's hands Thursday.

Mr. Delmas will go before the jury with a plea for an absolute acquittal on the ground that Thaw's mind was unbalanced at the time he committed the crime and that in view of the fact that he has since recovered his mental balance, he should be allowed to go absolutely free. Mr. Jerome, on the other hand will argue that Thaw was sane within the meaning of the law when he killed Stanford White, that the crime was planned and premeditated and that he should suffer the extreme penalty of the law.

"I do not expect that it will take us more than an hour to close our case," said Clifford W. Hartridge, Thaw's attorney of record tonight. "Our evidence is all in and save for a few matters purely formal, nothing remains but the summing up. I am not sure whether Mr. Delmas will be able to finish his address in one day, but he may begin on Monday."

In speaking of the action of the lunacy commission and of the mental and physical examination of Thaw, Mr. Hartridge said:

"I want to give the inside history of my appearing before the lunacy commission. I waived all constitutional rights and told the commission to ask Thaw any question they saw fit, except that I told him not to answer any questions about the trial and the case. One member of the commission did ask Thaw a question about the case and on my advice he declined to answer it. Then the commissioners sent for me and asked me if I would not withdraw my advice so as to allow Thaw to answer the question. I then told Thaw to answer any question that the members of the commission might ask. My attitude in turning Thaw entirely loose upon the commission showed my confidence in his ability to meet all tests.

"Down deep in my heart I believe that Thaw was insane when he did the shooting. But I have always contended that he ought to have a trial. When the effort was made to have him railroaded to Mattewan he protested that he wanted to be tried and I upheld him in it. I have known Thaw for a long time and I have the advantage of people who have only come in contact with him lately. In the Tombs he got back his mental balance and his physical health, and I contended that he should have a trial and he has had it."

DEED OF TRUST OF MRS. EDDY

Plaintiffs File Supplemental Bill In Equity to Have It Vacated.

SHE WAS NOT COMPETENT

Action Will Probably Involve Inquiry Into Mrs. Eddy's Mental Condition. Trustees Managing Her Property for Own Purposes.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Concord, N. H., April 6.—A supplemental bill in equity, called forth by the recent announcement that the property of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy had been transferred to three trustees, was filed in the Merrimack County Court today by the original plaintiffs or "next friends" in the suit, for an accounting of Mrs. Eddy's property. The bill filed today is the answer of the plaintiffs to the motion made by the defendants last Tuesday that the three trustees, Archibald McLellen, of Boston; Henry M. Baker, of Bow, and Josiah E. Fernald, of this city, be substituted for the "next friends," and be empowered to prosecute the suits against the defendants in the case, who are all prominent members of the Christian Science Church. The answer in the form of a supplemental petition, asks that the three trustees be added to the list of defendants on the ground that the trustees are working for the same ends as the original defendants, that is, that they are unduly influencing Mrs. Eddy and managing her property to their own purposes.

Judge Robert N. Chamberlain issued an order that all the defendants, including the original defendants and three trustees, shall appear in court on April 15 to make answer to the petition filed today. The supplemental bill also asks that the deed of trust be vacated on the ground that Mrs. Eddy was not competent to execute it, and it was a device contrived by the defendants to defeat the purpose of the original suit.

Evidence of Mental Incompetence.

Boston, April 6.—Frederick W. Peabody, of this city, of counsel for the plaintiffs in the suit for an accounting of the property of Mary Baker G. Eddy, in a statement with reference to the deed of trust proceedings said today:

"The status of the three alleged trustees will not be assumed but must be proven. They are not trustees if the instrument upon which they rely is of no validity, and the validity of the instrument can be determined only by a judicial determination of the mental capacity of the person who is alleged to have made it. The attempted creation of the trust is an admission of the incompetency of Mrs. Eddy personally to administer her business and property; and such an admission involves the further admission of incompetency to dispose of it by deed of trust or otherwise. I am confident we shall have no difficulty in having the alleged trust instrument invalidated because of Mrs. Eddy's condition of mental unsoundness."

JAPANESE ARE EXCLUDED.

Several Hundred Smuggling In Over Mexican Border.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Washington, April 6.—Secretary Straus, of the Department of Commerce and Labor today denied admission to this country of five Japanese immigrants, namely Hisamtsu Takemoto, Otokiro Hatakeyama, Mauskichi Yamada, Kenosuke Sadakami and Kanekichi Takayama. These are the first Japanese exclusion cases which have reached the Secretary since the promulgation of the executive order carrying into effect the new immigration law. Secretary Straus' action was based upon an appeal taken by the Jauanese from a decision of the inspector at El Paso, Texas, denying them the right to enter this country on passports from Mexico.

These appeals first reached Commissioner if Immigration Sargent and they were offered by him to the Secretary with the recommendation that they be dismissed on teh ground that no other course was permissible under the agreement of last Winter relative to the exclusion of Japanese laborers.

The matter was presented on behalf of the would-be immigrants to the Japanese Minister and he advised them that the course of the United States authorities was in accord with the agreement between the two countries and hence satisfactory to his government. When they reported that they had been compelled to come to the United States in search of food, he advised them to apply to the Japanese Minister to Mexico for relief. Commissioner Sargent has been advised that about 500 Japanese laborers have recently left El Paso going both East and West and it is expected that they will try to find admission into the United States at unguarded points along the international line.

EIGHT KILLED IN WRECK.

Freights Collide Last Night on Southern Railway in Georgia.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Atlanta, Ga., April 6.—A special to the Constitution from Mableton, Ga., says a disastrous wreck occurred on the Southern Railway about one and a half miles from that place tonight by which eight or more negroes were killed and twelve or thirteen injured, several probably fatally. At 8 o'clock eight bodies had been recovered and it is believed more are under the wreckage. An open switch is reported to have caused the wreck, allowing a westbound freight to crash into another freight train standing on the main track.

OPENING DAY OF EXPOSITION

Official Programme Given Out Yesterday For Great Jamestown Celebration.

BEGINS FRIDAY, APRIL 26.

President Roosevelt Will Be Feature. He Will Deliver Address and Press Button That Will Start Machinery—Naval Salutes.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Norfolk, Va., April 6.—President Roosevelt is to be the feature of the opening day of the Jamestown Ter-Centennial Exposition, the official programme of which was announced today. The opening exercises, which take place Friday April 26, will begin at sunrise by a salute of 300 guns by the Norfolk Light Artillery Blues, commemorating the three hundredth anniversary of the first English settlement of America.

The President will reach the exposition grounds at 11:30 o'clock after passing on the Mayflofiwer through columns of saluting foreign and American warships in Hampton Roads. He will be escorted to the review stand on Lee's Parade in the rear of the auditorium building. The speech-making feature of the programme will begin at once, and in the open air should the weather permit. An invocation by the Right Rev. Alfred MaGill Randolph, bishop of the diocese of Southern Virginia, and a brief introductory address by Harry St. George Tucker, president of the Exposition Company, will precede the President's remarks. When the President has concluded he will press a gold button and immediately the machinery of the great show will be in motion, a thousand flags will be unfurled on the exposition buildings, and a salute to the nation will be fired by the foreign and American ships in the roads an by the garrison at Fort Monroe At the conclusion of the salute the exposition bands will play the "Star Spangled Banner," the troops will "present arms" and the concourse will stand with uncovered heads.

The parade fos oldiers and sailors of the United States under Major General Frederick Grant will be the next feature.

The President will review the parade from a grand stand where also will be gathered the honored guests of the occasion, including the diplomatic corps, the official committees of the Senate and House of Representatives, and the Governors of States, twenty of whom have accepted invitations to be present.

The day will close with a reception to President Roosevelt, between 5 and 6 o'clock.
